

Intent To Uphold Charter

Truman And Attlee Share Such Attitude In Conferences

By John M. Hightower
WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(P)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee said today they hope for a peaceful settlement of the Korean crisis but that if the Chinese Communists do not share this attitude the United Nations will decide what actions to take.

"For our part," the two asserted in a final communique on their week long talks here, "we declare in advance our firm resolve to uphold" the principles of the U. N. charter.

For Security and Peace
The 2,000-word communique announced:

1. President Truman told Attlee he hoped it would never be necessary to use the atomic bomb and that he intends to keep Attlee informed "of developments which might bring about a change in the situation."

2. The British and American leaders agreed that consideration of the Formosa question in the U. N. will contribute to the maintenance of peace and security in the Pacific. This has been the American position all along and Attlee now supports it.

3. The two frankly recognized their policy split over Britain's recognition of Communist China and America's recognition of the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa but expressed determination "to prevent it from interfering with our united effort in support of our common objectives."

4. British and American troops will continue to carry out their U. N. missions of opposing aggression in Korea and "there can be no thought of appeasement or of rewarding aggression, whether in the Far East or elsewhere."

5. Agreement was reached that the military power of the U. S. and Britain "should be increased as rapidly as possible" because adequate defense forces are essential if war is to be prevented. The production capacity of other Allied nations also must be expanded.

6. They agreed that when plans for creating an integrated western European defense force are approved a supreme commander should be appointed. They expressed hope the appointment could be made "soon." This apparently meant the British view that a commander should be named at once, even before completion of the plans, had made no headway with Mr. Truman.

7. Agreement was also reached that international action for allocation of raw materials to meet defense and essential civilian needs throughout the world is necessary. The principle was adopted that while defense production "must be given the highest practicable priority," essential civilian requirements for scarce materials must be met as far as possible.

There was no reference directly to a big four meeting but there was a virtual call on Russia and China to alter their ways and encourage the development of a more peaceful world.

"We believe," the communique said, "that the Communist leaders of the Soviet Union and China could, if they chose, modify their conduct in such a way as to make these (Allied) defense preparations unnecessary."

"We shall do everything that we can, through whatever channels are open to us, to impress this view upon them and to seek a peaceful solution of existing issues."

The communique was issued after a final two hour and 20 minute meeting of the two heads of government. Vice-President Barkley and members of Mr. Truman's cabinet were asked in and heard the communique read.

Allies Form Line in North Korea

U. N. troops rallied Dec. 7 behind a new defense line running from the port of Chinnampo in the north to Koksang (Jagged line). In northeast American troops began arriving at trapped Koto after fighting out of another entrapment at Hagaru (circle). They still face heavy enemy troop concentrations along the only escape road to the Hamhung-Hungnam area (broken arrow). Attempt to open the road by troops from Hamhung was stopped at Majon. Gen. MacArthur Made Governor

TOKYO, Dec. 8.—(P)—General MacArthur today became governor of Okinawa and the other Ryukyu islands under a broad program apparently designed to tighten control over the strategic chain.

The Army public information office said the action was ordered by the U. S. joint chiefs of staff. MacArthur will have more direct control of Okinawa and its surrounding islands. Previously the commanding general acted as a semi-autonomous governor under MacArthur's general supervision.

Okinawa and its strategic airfields have become increasingly important since the outbreak of the Korean campaign. B-29 Superforts fly regularly from there to bomb Korean targets.

Talk on Glass Given Jaycees

O. W. Wiley Was Guest Speaker Thursday Night

A very interesting talk on glass was given by O. W. Wiley, plant manager of the Pittsburgh Corning Corp., in Sedalia, before the members of the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce, at their regular dinner meeting, Thursday evening in the Pioneer room.

Mr. Wiley described the many uses of glass today, and explained how glass was made. He showed the members his collection of glass articles, such as curtains, draperies, fishing rod, pillow, bolts, miniature heating unit, and other oddities.

The Jaycees showed interest in Mr. Wiley's profession, by asking various questions about glass. This question and answer period lasted at least an hour.

Prior to the plant manager's talk, a regular business session was held with Robert Wall, president, presiding. Nominations were in order to elect a new board member to fill the unexpired term of Robert Younger. Mr. Younger is now employed in Marshall, and felt that he would be unable to devote full time as a board member.

It was announced that the Jaycees would hold a dance, Friday night, December 29. It was further announced that the J. C. members will conduct a membership drive, effective that night, which will be concluded on February 1. To the member bringing in the most members and membership fees, will be a special award.

The Jaycees will hold their own radio program every Monday night between 7:15 and 7:30 o'clock it was announced by the president.

Outstanding Young Man to Be Selected by Junior C. of C.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will select the outstanding young man for 1950 in Sedalia as part of the events in the commemoration of the founding of the Junior Chamber of Commerce January 21, 1921 at St. Louis. This will be the local equivalent of the National Junior Chamber of Commerce's selection of the ten outstanding young men in the nation.

Nominations for outstanding Sedalia young men may be made by anyone who knows someone they believe may qualify and it may be any young man in Sedalia. He does not have to be

Calls on Red China to Stop The Killing

Britain Asks That It Be in Role Of UN Charter

By Max Harrelson

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 8.—(P)—Britain called upon Red China today to stop killing United Nations troops in Korea and put herself within the pale of the U. N. charter. If she does this, British Minister of State Kenneth Younger said, she will find all U. N. members, both east and west, ready to cooperate.

In a major policy speech before the general assembly's political committee, the British delegate thus appeared to be making a conciliatory move toward the Peiping regime. He assured the Chinese Reds that no country here had any desire to fight them.

At the same time, Younger declared that UN troops were sent to Korea originally to resist aggression and that they would stand by this principle despite the intervention of the Chinese Communists.

"We went there to uphold a principle—collective resistance to armed aggression," Younger declared. "That principle remains firm through good times and bad. Now there is renewed danger due to Chinese intervention. I repeat, in fair weather and foul the principle stands."

Challenge Soviet Claim
Younger spoke after the political committee heard a special report from the UN's seven-member Korean commission challenging Soviet claims that the Chinese in Korea were volunteers. Meanwhile, it was disclosed that British prime minister Attlee will visit the UN late today (4:40 p. m. EST).

Attlee has been engaged in four days of conferences with President Truman in Washington. He will be entertained at a dinner tonight at the home of UN secretary-general Trygve Lie. The report said the commission had made an on-the-spot inquiry and found that all prisoners taken by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces were members of regular army units and "were not volunteers in any possible meaning of the term."

Shaping For Price Ceiling

Wage and Price Freeze Will Not Be Put on Immediately

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle said today the government definitely is making plans for a ceiling on prices but sees no reason to freeze them now.

Such a ceiling would necessarily be coupled with a lid on wage increases, but DiSalle told a news conference he hoped any freeze would not be necessary.

In any case, the former Toledo mayor said his price agency would be unable to impose a general ceiling for 60 to 90 days because of a lack of staff, space and administrative organization.

DiSalle is director of price stabilization in the Economic Stabilization Agency. He spoke at a conference held jointly with economic stabilization administrator Alan Valentine and wage stabilization board chairman Cyrus S. Ching.

All made it clear that a wage-price freeze, widely rumored in the last few days, is not imminent.

His Basic Materials First
But Valentine implied that "selective" controls may be employed on basic defense materials before any general action is taken.

The ESA administrator indicated also the agency might make any price roll-back retroactive—a plain warning to businessmen that attempts to "beat" a freeze by boosting prices now might be fruitless.

Valentine said he had not yet received any reply from Ford Motor Co. or General Motors Corp. to his telegrams last night urging them to suspend their announced price increases on 1951 models, pending an industry conference with ESA here next week.

Valentine declined to say what ESA would do if the companies refused to rescind the price boosts. But he noted that ESA "is fully clothed with authority, and if voluntary action fails we could take mandatory action of the situation justified."

There have been widespread demands from Congressmen for wage-price controls. Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said today the people ought to insist on them "in self defense."

Disalle, in his first news conference since his appointment as price chief, gave reporters a formal statement in which he appealed for self-restraint by businessmen and consumers. He also denounced hoarders and profiteers and promised the government will hunt out and expose the "jackals that attempt to unjustly enrich themselves at the expense of national peril." He declared:

"Hoarders and profiteers are enemies of the nation. Their activities if not curbed will defeat the purposes of this (defense production) act, and destroy the nation from within as certainly as armed action by an outside foe."

"Consequently we cannot emphasize too strongly our complete determination to lick this problem."

Talk to BPWC Given on State Department

A. V. Burrowes For Reliance on Prayer in Crisis

An inspiring talk which stressed faith in God and prayer and a trust in the men who make the policies of our country as a solution to today's crisis in the world was made Thursday night by Arthur V. Burrowes, editor of the St. Joseph News Press and Gazette at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, at Bothwell hotel.

Taking for his subject: "The State Department" Mr. Burrowes said that he thought it would be an international tragedy to remove Dean Acheson as secretary of state. He told of the brilliant records left by the secretaries of state through the entire history of the United States and that he had personally known the last six. Of them all, he said, he considered Acheson the most profound thinker, and he believed the criticism of him was unjust.

Fire Damages Croft Farm Home

Fire which started from an overheated flue caused damage to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Croft, on East Highway 50, about 3:10 o'clock this morning. The Croft home is the second house on the northside of the highway going east from the Missouri Pacific underpass.

The Crofts were able to chop holes in the ceiling of their living room and kitchen through which they threw water and extinguished the blaze.

A call was made to the Sedalia fire department, but as the residence was outside the city limits, the firemen could not make the run.

Police Capt. Dies In Gun Battle

SAGINAW, Mich., Dec. 8.—(P)—A police captain was slain and two fellow officers were wounded critically in a roaring gun battle in downtown Saginaw early today.

It was the bloody outcome of a police ambush for a man and woman who only the night before had escaped from a similar desperado-style gun fight with officers.

This time the pair failed to escape. Police seized them just outside the city. The man was badly wounded.

But in the veritable blood bath behind them were left a dead officer and two others who barely escaped death.

Police Capt. Daniel P. Waters, 39, decorated World War II veteran of the Pacific, was killed.

Wounded were police detective Clarence Dietzel, 53, shot in the abdomen, and State Parole Officer Eldon Johnson, 40, shot in the chest and right hand.

Seized were Lawrence Nelson, alias Larry Edwards, 33, of Port Huron, Mich., identified as a parolee, and his woman companion, Mrs. Sylvia Van Conant, 35, also of Port Huron.

Compromise Expected on Rent Control

Due to Expire in Some Areas on December 31

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(P)—Here is the way Missouri representatives voted yesterday on extension of the rent control law for 90 days:

Short, Republican, against. For, all Democrats, Magee, Moulder, Welch, Irving, Bolling, Christopher, Carnahan, Cannon, Sullivan, Karst and Karsten.

Might Split Difference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(P)—The federal rent control program, due to expire in some areas Dec. 31, was assured today of at least another two months of life—and probably more.

Bills temporarily extending the rent law whipped through the Senate and House yesterday, and today went to conference to compromise differences.

As Senate-House conferees arranged to meet, all advance indications pointed to a 75-day extension of the present control law with inclusion of a provision simplifying decontrol procedure.

The Senate version, passed by a vote of 55 to 28, provides for a two-month extension. The House voted 221 to 152 for a three-month extension.

In effecting a compromise, Senate-House conferees were expected to split the difference and accept a Senate amendment allowing a city council to decontrol local rents by a simple council resolution rather than a formal ordinance. The House rejected a similar decontrol amendment.

As the law now stands, the main control feature of the rent law dies New Year's eve. Thereafter, there would be no compulsory controls except in those cities and local communities now under controls which elect to retain them until June 30.

Explosion and Fire In Thawing Pipes

MOBERLY, Mo., Dec. 8.—(P)—This is how it happened.

Sub-zero weather yesterday froze some water pipes in the five-room home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Courtney here.

Toney Hathman, a workman, trying to thaw the pipes, lit some paper torches under the house.

Mrs. Courtney, who was heating some water on a kitchen stove next door to visit neighbors. The kettle of water boiled over while she was gone.

The water put out the flames of the gas burner. Gas seeped through the house and was ignited by the flames of the workman's torch.

No one was injured but the house and its contents were badly damaged in the explosion and fire that followed.

Stream Pollution To be up Again

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 8.—(P)—Missouri's 1951 legislature will be asked again to pass a bill to control stream pollution.

As the first step in the drive, the clean streams committee of the Conservation Federation of Missouri will be reorganized here Sunday.

Cecil J. Veatch of Webb City, federation president, announced today he will reappoint Dr. W. Wallis Smith of Springfield as chairman. Dr. Smith formerly was president of the state medical association.

Red Guerrillas Behind The Eighth Army

Up to 40,000 Slow Up UN Forces in Their Retreat

WITH U. S. EIGHTH ARMY, Korea, Dec. 8.—(P)—A Red force of up to 40,000 well-armed men—mostly reorganized North Korean troops—is operating behind the Eighth army lines today.

It is increasingly harassing the United Nations retreat south. For the past three months the Reds have slipped out of the hills and valleys with hit and run raids on villages and supply lines.

The Eighth army has been fighting a war within a war to control the menace.

The so-called guerrillas for the most part are North Korean troops who were by-passed in the Allied offensive last September.

The big breakthrough in the south left thousands of enemy troops behind who refused to surrender.

Capt. James Tate of Rome, Ga., who has kept in close touch with the guerrilla situation, said the only way the army could have wiped out this force would have been to comb over every hill and valley in the big advance north.

Parts of Regular Army
Technically, these bypassed Red Korean troops are not trained guerrillas, but regular army units broken up into small bands.

An Eighth army intelligence officer said there is no evidence that the Chinese Reds are in control of the roving North Korean forces in the south. He said he doubts that the guerrillas are receiving supplies from the Chinese.

However, he added that it would be possible for the Chinese to send supplies down into central Korea round the right flank of the American lines.

"This would have slowed down the advance and meant heavier casualties than we had," he said.

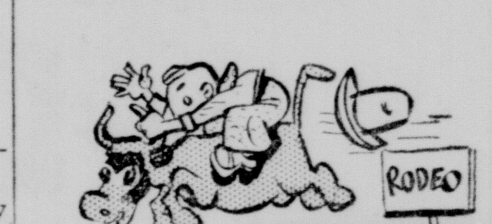

Army men said the Red troops were left behind apparently with orders to cut Eighth army supply lines and to tie up as many United Nations troops as possible.

The guerrillas have failed to disrupt supply lines—but they have succeeded in keeping about four divisions busy hunting them down and protecting the supply routes.

Captain Tate said these Communist forces—which usually operate in groups of 50 men—appear to have a military organization.

South Korean police say the guerrillas have a general officer who coordinates and directs their activity. There was some evidence of this recently when U. N. forces captured a guerrilla command post in the southwest.

Movement on to Reach East Coast Of Korea For Removal by Sea

By Stan Swinton

NORTHEAST FRONT, Korea, Dec. 8.—(P)—A great column of U. S. marines and soldiers desperately battling south from the Changjin reservoir area, made "good progress" today against intense small arms fire from the encircling Chinese Reds. U. S. Tenth Corps headquarters announced tonight.

TOKYO, Dec. 8.—(P)—

Thousands of American and Allied troops battled desperately to break through fiery Red Chinese traps today in efforts to reach the Korean east coast for probable mass removal by sea.

Chinese forces were reported close behind one retreating force of 20,000 at the Koto airstrip, on both sides of a canyon trail leading down to the sea, and ahead of them near their expected place of embarkation on the Sea of Japan at Hungnam.

Thousands of others scattered in the northeast were trying to reach the escape port.

In northeast Korea, only patrol contact was reported along the newly-formed Eighth army defense line.

Top American naval and marine officers conferred secretly on a ship off the stormy east coast. A U. S. Eighth army source said some 40,000 North Korean troops, in the far northeast, already had escaped by sea.

The big question was how many others in the northeast could reach the coast.

Raked by Heavy Fire
At the most critical spot the 20,000 — U. S. Marines and doughboys and a few British were in the midst of a tank-led drive to break out of a four-sided Chinese trap south of the Changjin reservoir.

Reds entrenched on dominating ridges and shielded by a snowstorm from allied air attack raked the column with heavy fire.

The leathernecks and infantrymen moved slowly down a steep, ice glazed and snowy mountain trail from Koto, eight miles south of the reservoir. Forward elements had covered five of the 45 long miles from Koto to the east coast escape port of Hungnam by Friday noon.

Driving north to meet them was a relief column of the U. S. Third division, trying to clear the roads into the mountains from Hungnam.

But even if the 20,000 should link up and escape that fiery defile, thousands of additional Chinese massing north of Hungnam and the nearby industrial city of Hamhung threaten to cut them off again.

A Chinese attack on the Koto airstrip behind them made the critical situation even worse. The bump strip is the only outside link for the trapped troops south of the Chankjin.

More than 1,700 critically wounded marines and doughboys have been flown from Koto. There were no details of the Red attack on the field.

Through Mountains
Far north of the reservoir, the 17th regiment of the U. S. Seventh division was moving through mountains swarming with Chinese but its whereabouts was not announced. The 17th withdrew from a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu river boundary of Red Manchuria. It had been the only American outfit to reach the Yalu.

In the far northeast, elements of the South Korean Capital division were evacuated by water, presumably from the big port of Chongjin, 60 miles southwest of the Soviet Siberian border.

An army source said the remainder of the division was pulling back by land toward Hungnam.

Coincident with these developments, top marine and navy officers met at Yonpo airfield south of Hamhung Friday afternoon and then left for shipboard conferences.

They included Lt. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, commanding fleet marine forces and Vice Adm. C. T. Joy, commander of far east

Mrs. Laverne says, just taking herself as an example... now that she is taking HADACOL there isn't a person in the world who can make her mad. Mrs. Laverne found that by taking HADACOL her system was no longer deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mrs. Laverne's own statement "You don't know how wonderful it feels to be in such good condition—after two years of feeling run-down. I had a very poor appetite—in fact, food didn't agree with me at all. I had a hard time sleeping nights... sometimes I would stay awake until 1 or 2 in the morning and then the next day I would feel tired and groggy all day long. You have no idea how terrible I felt. Now all this is gone... yes, now that I have been taking HADACOL, I feel wonderful. I get lots of good, sound sleep, have a fine appetite and just lots of energy. Travel Troubles

SINGAPORE —(P)—Singaporeans and residents of the Federation of Malaya who want to go to England by sea any time soon are in for a long wait unless they've booked many months ago. Travel agencies say every steamer is sold out up to the end of next June.

They add, that there simply are not as many liners or freighters coming into Singapore port as before World War II.

Travellers to the United States

don't face any difficulties. There's plenty of space aboard liners and freighters. That's because so few people travel from here because, under currency restrictions, they can't get enough dollars for their trip. So American citizens make up most of the travellers going to the United States.

Shirley Parks Is Bride Of Fred Viebrock

Miss Shirley Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Parks, of Calhoun, became the bride of Mr. Fred Viebrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Viebrock, 1006 South Moniteau avenue, at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, November 26, at the Baptist church in Calhoun.

The Rev. R. C. Reichert, pastor of the church, read the double ring service in a chancel setting of huckleberry fern, large mums and lighted tapers in tall standards.

Mrs. Kathryn Pahlow, of Sedalia, sister of the bridegroom, played the nuptial music and accompanied the violinist, Miss Rose Marie Reed, of Sedalia, who played several numbers preceding the ceremony.

Miss Bonnie Parks, sister of the bride and Miss Wilma Parks, of Sedalia, cousins of the bride, lighted the tapers. They both wore gowns of gold satin with matching mitts and their halos were of pink carnations.

The bride wore a gown of candlelight satin, styled with tightly fitted bodice fastened down the back with tiny satin covered buttons. The high necked sheer lace yoke was trimmed with the same type buttons which were also used to fasten the long sleeves at the wrist. The bouffant skirt fell in unpressed pleats and lengthened into an aisle wide train. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was held by a halo of see pearl and she carried a bouquet of white carnations surrounding white and lavender orchids held by a shower of white ribbons. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor, Miss Anita Parks, of Sedalia, cousin of the bride, wore a floor length dress of pale green taffeta with matching shoulder tip veil held by a halo of net and ribbon. Her mitts were also of pale green, and she carried a bouquet of yellow baby chrysanthemums tied with a shower of yellow and brown ribbon.

Mr. Loyd Green, of St. Louis, served as best man for Mr. Viebrock.

Mrs. Parks, mother of the bride, wore a dress of teal blue with black accessories and her corsage was of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Viebrock, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in grey with a corsage of lavender chrysanthemums.

Cousins of the bride and bridegroom served as ushers. They were Victor Litchy, of Cole Camp and Mr. Irvin Parks, of Sedalia. Mr. Kenneth Farley, of Sedalia had charge of the guest book.

After the ceremony the guests assembled in the basement of the church where Mr. and Mrs. Viebrock, Mr. and Mrs. Parks and the wedding party received.

The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake on which was a miniature bride and groom.

Those assisting in serving the cake and fruit punch were Mrs. Dorothy Hellen Chastain, Mrs. Frances Goldsmith, Mrs. Ellen Young, of Sedalia and Mrs. Ruth Parks, of Calhoun.

Mrs. Viebrock was graduated from the Calhoun school in the class of 1947 after which she worked as a sales woman in the H. S. Snare in Calhoun and the past year has been employed as a bookkeeper for Swift and company in Sedalia.

Mr. Viebrock finished school in Sedalia after which he went in service in the Armed Forces. Later he attended the University of Missouri, Columbia and at present is a salesman for the H. D. Lee company of Kansas City.

The couple took a wedding trip after which they returned to Clinton where they will be temporarily located. For traveling the bride wore a rust gabardine suit with black accessories, and her corsage was of orchids.

Television For Homemakers

The High Point Homemakers held its regular meeting December 6 at the home of Mrs. Henry Lamm with 14 members and one visitor present.

A prayer was led by Mrs. Roy Fender and a dinner was served to which all the members had contributed, with Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, assistant hostess. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Sam Freund reading the minutes and the roll call was answered with either a Christmas poem or what I want most for Christmas.

Mrs. Fender mailed a package to some poor families of Europe. What was left will be contributed to the Salvation Army here.

Each brought an exchange of gifts, and all secret pals exchanged gifts and everyone found out who their secret pals were. A Christmas tree, decorated with colored lights, was by the fireplace.

Television was shown by Mrs. Henry Lamm.

The children all received gifts and were given stockings filled with fruit and candy.

Mrs. B. G. Smith led the group in singing "Jingle Bells."

The club drew names for next year's secret pals.

The meeting was adjourned to meet next month with Mrs. James Rittman.

British Receive Briefing on Military Situation in Korea

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright 1950 By The B-H Syndicate Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—British delegates who left the first Truman-Attlee White House conference described their impressions as follows: "When General Bradley got through, one felt like he had been kicked in the stomach."

President Truman, as host, opened the conference by proposing to Prime Minister Attlee that Gen. Omar Bradley give all present an up-to-the-minute briefing on the military situation in Korea. This was agreeable.

Bradley then disclosed calmly and solemnly that the United Nations forces in Korea had suffered a complete collapse. He described this as the greatest military disaster in the history of the United States.

Bradley reported that the Chinese Communists had brilliantly and effectively slashed through American lines in such fashion as to make the holding of anything but a small beachhead impossible. American casualties in the preceding four or five days, Bradley said, had exceeded anything that the Allied forces had suffered in a comparable period of World War II or World War I. He reported that the Marines fighting in northeast Korea were taking the worst beating. However, a complete blueprint has been completed for the evacuation of every savable man in Korea, and Gen. Joe Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, has been rushed to Korea with this plan.

Bradley reported to the Prime Minister and his advisers that it was the American view that a small, carefully selected beachhead might be maintained in South Korea, though even this was doubtful. Bradley said the United States favored keeping such a beachhead.

British Viewpoint

At this point Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the British general staff, was asked by Prime Minister Clement Attlee to comment on the situation and give the British view.

Slim replied that British information on the military situation was much sketchier than that of the United States, but that, on the basis of the information already made available to the U.K. delegation, it appeared futile to attempt to maintain even a beachhead in Korea.

Slim argued for a total evacuation. The enormous effort that would be required to supply a beachhead continuously, he maintained, would sap Allied powers at an alarming rate. He pointed out that supporting a beachhead would ultimately require a gigantic effort again to liberate Korea, and that, from the British viewpoint, it would be impossible to mount this effort in Korea while we were attempting to build necessary forces against Russia in Europe.

Slim said that any thought of again invading Korea after we had been thrown out should be discarded on the grounds that it would take a greater effort to reinstate Korea than it took to land the Allied expeditionary forces in Normandy in World War II.

No mention was made of the use of the atomic bomb. It had been agreed before Attlee arrived that there were no suitable targets for using the bomb in Korea. Nor did anyone express any criticism of General MacArthur at any time.

NOTE—General Bradley has had under consideration a plan to take every four-engine plane out of civilian air service in the United States to fly reinforcements to the Korean front. However, this plan was abandoned when it became clear that the reinforcements would not stand off the Chinese hordes. The planes may still be taken to be used as part of a Dunkerque operation.

Ike to Operate Immediately

Talk then turned to the question of what the Allied powers could do about the situation in the Far East. Attlee gave the British view that some kind of arrangement had to be made with the Chinese in order to avoid even greater calamities out of which only Russia could be the victor. He emphasized—and the American group agreed—that the enemy was Russia, not China, and that our strength had to be built up in the European theatre.

The Prime Minister reported that in his conference with Premier Rene Plevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, the French had agreed to the immediate appointment of General Eisenhower as supreme commander of the Allied forces in Europe with the idea that Eisenhower, upon arriving at the scene, would then work out final details of the integration of the German army with that of the French, British and other allies in the defense of Europe.

Attlee also made the point that it was imperative to have a decision reached on Eisenhower at once in order to demonstrate to Europe that the Western powers were not hopelessly destroyed throughout the world but were giving up in Korea to fight another day in Europe. The President agreed.

Attlee also relayed the French view that the situation in Korea made the situation in Indo-China virtually untenable. He said the French wanted continued American aid rushed to Indo-China, but no longer expected any American or British military forces to actively defend Indo-China.

Attlee reported that the French were ready to activate 20 divisions and that Britain, which already had two divisions on the European continent, would swiftly commit an additional three divisions as fast as arms were manufactured and delivered. He pledged full cooperation to a high command set up under General Eisenhower.

The American delegation agreed with all these points.

Combined Allied Supplies

Attlee then raised the question of the re-establishment of a combined materials resources board, such as operated in World War II. He pointed out that the Allies were competing with each other for scarce raw materials in the Far East to a point where a fantastic inflation had taken place. He urged the immediate reestablishment of a joint Anglo-American-French board to do all the strategic buying in the Far East to solve this problem. Secretary of State Acheson was directed by President Truman to go forward on this front.

Recognizing China

Sir Roger Makins, representing British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, then raised the question of establishing some kind of relationship with the Chinese Communist government to prevent, via diplomacy, further Chinese aggression in the Far East. Truman asked what was proposed.

Attlee replied that the great weakness of the Allied position was failure to conduct effective diplomatic conversations with the Chinese to determine their views.

Attlee told a revealing story about how failure to have adequate relationships with the Chinese might be costing Allied lives. He said that Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British delegate to the United Nations, had been alerted to seize any opportunity to establish conversations with the Chinese delegation headed by General Wu when the Chinese Communists arrived in New York.

Jebb was introduced to Wu at Lake Success and said to the Chinese delegate: "Let's have lunch together sometime soon." Jebb reported sadly to London that this had been dismissed by General Wu with a seemingly casual, "Oh, all right."

Attlee then reported that several days later Sir Benegal N. Rau, the Indian delegate, who has been holding conversations with the Chinese Communists, casually asked General Wu if he was planning to meet with any other delegations while he was in New York.

General Wu said that he had been invited to lunch by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, and that Jebb had not set any date for it although Wu was eagerly looking forward to the meeting. Attlee said that Sir Benegal had promptly communicated this to Jebb who has now entertained the Chinese Communists—although only after one week's delay.

Attlee took the view that every effort should be made to find out from the Chinese Communists what terms were agreeable to them. Truman and Acheson did not warm to this proposal, but agreed to let the British take the lead in this direction.

NOTE 1—In the words of one British delegate, Attlee "who plans to play it by ear," hopes to get agreement from Truman to a five-power, top-level meeting to be held somewhere in Europe—perhaps in Germany—fairly soon. At such a meeting, Stalin and Mao Tse-Tung would be invited to sit down with the United States, Great Britain and France to see if some formula could not be worked out for saving the peace of the world.

NOTE 2—Truman-Attlee talks are unlike any of the wartime meetings between Roosevelt and Churchill. No agenda was prepared in advance. No plans of any importance were made for presentation by either side.

Just Waking Up Now

Speaking of the wreck-ridden Long Island railroad, an official of the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Safety made this statement:

"In my experience this is the first railroad I've encountered where the headway is so close and the traffic so dense at certain times that perhaps it requires special treatment with respect to safety devices."

We don't know how long this official has been with ICC, but off-hand his words sound like quite an admission. The Long Island has been in existence a long time. It's been running under pretty much the same heavy traffic conditions for a long time.

The ICC safety bureau has jurisdiction over safety matters on all U.S. lines. What kind of job can it be doing if it is just now becoming aware of the unique traffic problem faced by this busiest of all commuter railroads?

In the light of this showing, Congress might well take a good look at the ICC's safety operations when it considers new funds for the agency next year.

Hole in The Dike

There's evidence from Washington that the critical events in Korea are welding of both parties into a solid front. These men are ready to dispense with the time-consuming and energy-wasting business of placing blame and uttering recriminations. That's as it should be.

Unfortunately, this fine spirit of unity does not extend to the whole rank and file in Congress. Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, never a man to worry about proving his charges, is still busy making new ones. Now he wants President Truman impeached unless he uses Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa armies in the fight against Red China.

It is apparent that the senator's concept of duty is vastly different from that held by most of his fellow lawmakers.

Transparent Camouflage

Reports are coming through that Russia's Premier Stalin has summoned key diplomats to Moscow from the various Soviet satellite countries. There's some feeling a conference is in the wind to discuss spring strategy for communism in Europe and Asia.

As usual, nobody is admitting a meeting is scheduled. The diplomats have, with amazing unanimity of purpose, decided either to visit top Russian doctors or to take a "rest cure" in the Soviet Union.

Only trouble with this camouflage is that some of us recall the last time a Kremlin summons went out. For a few of the satellite visitors, the "rest" turned out to be permanent.

THE WHOLE NATURE DISCIPLINED BY LOVE

We turn again to the "aim of the Christian discipline, which is love that springs from a pure heart, from a good conscience, and from a sincere faith." Note that it is a love that springs from the total personality—"a pure heart," the emotional nature; from a good conscience; the volitional nature; "from a sincere faith," the intellectual nature.

The personality expresses itself in three phases: intellect, feeling, and will. So the Christian discipline produces a love that springs, not from a portion of the being, but from the total being. This is the echo of the words of Jesus, who said the highest commandment was to "love the Lord thy God with all thy heart"—the affectional nature; "with all thy soul"—the volitional nature; "with all thy mind"—the intellectual nature; and "with all thy strength"—the physical nature. Man is to do the highest thing in the world—love—and he is to do it with every portion of his nature.

To love with every portion of one's nature is important, otherwise, one develops lopsided. The "strength" refers to the physical, but it could also refer to the rest of the personality. We are to love God with the strength of the mind, the strength of the emotion, the strength of the will, the strength of the body, so that the whole being is caught up by a burning passion of love. Like the rays that are gathered into our focus by a burning glass, so he kindles love and devotion in others. He is contagious. The disciplined make disciples.

My consecration shall be the burning glass that gathers everything into one focus of love. Then and then alone can I kindle others. I would kindle others. For I know that the discipline of myself is to get me beyond myself, so that I can be freed to lift and inspire others. Then let me find release from all contradictions, all cross-purposes, and let me burn—burn for Thee. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Q. and A.

You and the Service

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA —

Q. When I got a notice to report for a physical in connection with being called back to active duty I was turned down. Where does that leave me now? Can I forget about any future military service?

A. Unless there is an all-out war and they lower the physical standards you are pretty safe from service.

Q. When a fellow is drafted is there any chance of him getting in the Navy or Marines?

A. Not at the present time. All draftees are now going into the Army.

Q. When my husband first went into service three years ago I was getting an allotment check. Then it stopped recently. Now I am told, they are sending them out again. However, I haven't been receiving one. What should I do?

A. Your husband has to apply all over again for an allotment for you if he hasn't already done so.

Q. Suppose a man is receiving a check from Veterans Administration for a 10 per cent disability.

ability. Does that automatically keep him from enlisting in any service?

A. No. Any man can try to enlist and subject himself to the physical exam given by the service. If he passes he's in. However, if he gets in, the check from VA for a disability will automatically stop.

Q. When are they going to discharge the married veterans who went overseas to fight?

A. There is no special plan to discharge married men from the service.

Q. How long will they keep a reservist on active duty in the Navy if he is just about to be called up?

A. According to present plans, 18 months. But this time is subject change.

Q. Isn't it a law that reserves and members of the National Guard who are called to active duty must be stationed as near home as possible?

A. No.
Q. Can they now send reservists called to active duty overseas?

A. Yes.

Although Carotene Helps Night Sight No Vitamin Can Strengthen the Eyes

Written for NEA Service

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Why so many young men get tattooed in the first place I do not know but certainly a lot of them regret it afterwards. Both readers E. R. and J. W. have asked how their tattoos could be removed. It can be done and there are several methods which have been tried. The most popular involves tattooing tannic acid into the mark just enough to avoid bleeding. Silver nitrate is then rubbed over the area until it becomes black. The black crust is said to separate in about 16 days. Whether this or some other method is used, it should be decided by an expert since there are dangers. In most communities the skin specialists know of someone who is qualified to do it.

Q—Is it true that carrots are good for the eyes? What vitamin could be purchased at the drug store that would strengthen the eyes?

C. H.
A—Carrots contain rather large quantities of a vitamin called car-

Commander-in-Chief of the Anti-Inflation Army

THE STORY: Sgt. Eddie Engstrom's sound is wiped out in action and the men realize they are dead when they find themselves unseen in Westwaygo, the home town of all but Joe. The only living creature who can see them is Eddie's dog Duke. But they can see and Eddie saw the sweetest girl he'd ever seen—Margie Lou, who drives a bus. Maybe that's why Eddie has gone to the bus terminal alone.

XVII

EDDIE watched a dozen motor coaches come in, load and depart. But Old Ironsides did not show up. Maybe it had been in a wreck, or sold down the river to become a school bus. He would be disappointed if anything had happened to it. He felt almost as if he owned the old crate.

Under the instrument panel was where he had always hidden that lucky coin, so he would never give it to a passenger by mistake when making change. It was about the size of a quarter and had a square hole in the middle—a Chinese coin, somebody had told him. Every day, when he first sat down in the driver's seat, he hooked it on a bent nail way under where no one would see it. He always put it back in his pocket when he was relieved. All but once—on that last trip when he had been so excited about leaving for the Army that he'd forgotten the darned thing.

Eddie had just about given up hope when an old rattling, snorting monster came lumbering around the corner under the passenger landing shed and stopped at the door of the waiting room.

"Boatworks bus!" shouted the starter. "Leaving right away."

It was Eddie's bus. And Eddie's girl was driving it. Perhaps it was stretching the truth a little for Eddie to call Margie Lou his girl. But, she was the nearest thing to it that he had ever had. She was the first person toward whom he had felt a protective tenderness.

In his previous encounters with young women it had been a case of "everybody for himself." But Margie Lou was different. He would gladly have laid down his life for her, if he'd had one left.

Margie Lou didn't at the moment look like anybody who would launch even a couple of rowboats. She was in a gray-green uniform coat which was too large for her in several places and a cap which came down too far over her braids. The entire outfit had been inherited from a woman driver who had been fired the week before.

Eddie climbed aboard. "I see you're feeling all right now," he said.

Naturally Margie Lou did not reply, not having heard him. The starter was marshaling passengers aboard as fast as possible. There was another bus coming up behind. "You're late," he told Margie Lou.

"Traffic jam at Sixth and Western," she said. "Workmen's cars coming off shift tangled with a funeral."

"Oh." The starter raised his voice. "Back in the bus, folks. Plenty of room in the rear. Hey, you in front, you can't stand so close to the driver."

Eddie started to apologize but realized in a moment that the remark was not directed at him.

THE very definitely earthly body of Max Lengel was right behind Margie Lou's seat. Eddie hadn't seen him get on.

"I won't bother her," said Max with a hearty good nature. "She's a friend of mine."

The starter was a big man, too, and his supper wasn't agreeing with him. "Get back in the bus like I told you."

"Don't get him angry," Margie Lou cautioned Max pleadingly. "Sometimes he gets awful tough."

The starter was on the step. The passengers who were waiting to get aboard grouped behind him patiently.

Margie Lou's advice to Max Lengel did not have the effect she intended. Max got the idea she admired the prowess of the husky bus loader. He couldn't bear to have one of his women friends admire anyone else.

So when the man shoved him Max shoved back hard enough to push him off the step. Unluckily for Max the starter had a grip on his coat lapels and dragged Max right with him when he fell.

They rolled around on the concrete platform for a while, neither side scoring a touchdown. They finally got to their feet the majority of the waiting passengers had climbed aboard and now there wasn't room for an emaciated sardine to squeeze in anywhere.

"Take it away!" shouted the starter with what breath he had left.

Max made a tentative attempt to get a foothold somewhere on the bus but the folding door blocked him off. He compromised. "See you later, baby," he yelled at Margie Lou. "I'll bring you this big palooka's teeth to wear for a bracelet and some of his hair for—" It was about here that the starter hit Max for luck. The argument continued.

EDDIE had both an itching desire to get his hands on the wheel and an unfamiliar feeling of awe and tenderness toward the girl who was handling it. He did some back-seat driving, but Margie Lou naturally got no benefit from his muttered advice. Then, on a stretch of unobstructed highway, Eddie squatted down and peered under the instrument panel.

Contrary to his expectations, there was the coin with the hole in it, hooked over the crooked nail.

With a murmured thanks to Lady Luck, he reached for it. Nothing doing. He'd forgotten he couldn't pick up anything.

While he was absorbed in his baffled indignation, Margie Lou took her right hand off the wheel reached forward under the instrument panel. When her hand came out the coin lay in the palm.

A—It is a unique coincidence that the historic motto "United We Stand, Divided We Fall" was used on the great seals of the home states of both President Truman and Vice President Barkley, Missouri and Kentucky. This is the only such instance in the history of the presidency.

Q—Who wrote the text of Handel's "Messiah"?

Germans Prefer the U. S. Smokes

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—The American GI has left a different taste in the Germans' mouths—one calling for U.S. cigarettes. German smokers have turned 80 per cent in favor of American grown Virginia tobacco. Before the war almost 90 per cent of all Germans preferred the Oriental brand.

Before the war, an average 35,000 tons were yearly brought from Greece, Turkey and the Balkans, while less than 8,000 tons came from America. Latest available figures indicate that 3,600 tons of American tobacco were imported in one month compared with 1,100 tons from Greece and Turkey. (The lively pre-war trade with other Balkan countries is almost down to zero since the Communists took over there after the war.)

Pipes Thrown Out in Britain

LONDON—(AP)—Britons, from Bond Street gentlemen to gruff Cockney dockworkers, are laying aside the pipes which once were closely linked to their way of living. An ounce of tobacco costs 56 cents, 7 cents more than a pack of 20 cigarettes. So more men are smoking cigarettes.

The men who make and sell pipes and tobacco are highly disturbed. They've formed the national pipe smoking conference from representatives of associations of retail tobacconists, pipe and pipe tobacco manufacturers and other allied industries.

Malayas Study A New Cult

ALTOR STAR, Malaya—(AP)—A new, strange cult known as the "Seven Houris" (virgins) is being investigated by the government of Perlis state in northern Malaya. A committee of 11 religious leaders is inquiring into what's behind the cult which seems to promise virgins to all who remain faithful to its principles.

The organizer of the cult is said to have come from abroad, possibly from Arabia. Tuan Haji Ahmad, president of the state religious council, said leaders of the cult were committing criminal offenses by victimizing the poor and illiterate and asking followers to "surrender their property to the cult."

Young Fortune Seeker At the Salvation Army

McCright is staying with the Salvation Army until the weather breaks and he can obtain transportation to Iowa.

Arrest Poser As Protector

Is Wanted on Assault Charge in State of Kansas

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Dec. 8.—(P)—The 40-year-old wife of a Kalamazoo druggist—leader in a campaign for local police protection for women from street corner masher—was held today as a fugitive from Kansas kidnapping, robbery and assault charges.

She is Mrs. Norma Witters of Kalamazoo, but apparently Mrs. Woodrow Macki in Wichita, Kas., where she is wanted.

Police chief Howard Hoyt arrested her yesterday, after almost exploding through the ceiling when he recognized on an FBI wanted circular the woman who had been badgering him about street corner hoodlums and rows she'd been having with neighbors.

Besides being wanted in the near-fatal beating, kidnapping and robbery of William S. Menefee, a Wichita used car dealer, in July, 1949, she is wanted as a Kansas parole violator, the FBI said.

She was paroled from a grand larceny sentence, was known under various aliases according to the FBI and had led orchestras and played pianos at night spots throughout the country. The FBI added her police record went back to 1940 and included an arrest for lewd and lascivious conduct.

Hoyt said Witters met the woman while stopping at a Cleveland hotel where she was employed 18 months ago, and that they were married after a whirlwind courtship.

The chief said Witters didn't know her background and hadn't suspected his bride was wanted by police.

The woman claims she's not a bigamist, explaining that Woodrow Macki, whom she married first, hadn't gone through the process of divorcing his then current wife and therefore her marriage to him wasn't legal.

FBI records show Macki was sentenced to 10 to 20 years in Kansas for first degree robbery and assault in the Wichita case in which she's wanted. He is now in the state penitentiary there.

The used car dealer, Menefee, was critically beaten and apparently left for dead, after lighted cigarettes had been pressed to his flesh in an attempt to determine if he were alive. Menefee's car was taken by his abductors.

FBI records say the woman is known to be a judo expert and gun carrier.

She is under both federal and state bonds awaiting extradition hearings and a federal court arraignment on a charge of fleeing Kansas to avoid prosecution.

29, of Stover who died at the Clinton hospital Sunday afternoon is at the Stevenson funeral home in Stover.

She is survived by her husband and three children, ages eleven, nine and five years.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until the arrival of Mrs. Bray's mother.

James Marvin Long

Funeral services for James Marvin Long, 510 West Fourth street, Sedalia post office employee who was found dead in a parked mail truck at 7:55 o'clock Tuesday night near the intersection of Eleventh street and Summit avenue, will be held at the Gillespie funeral home Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

The Rev. Lee S. Marx, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church and the Rev. H. U. Campbell, former pastor of the church will jointly officiate.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park cemetery.

Evacuate Area Near Mt. Etna

CATANIA, Sicily, Dec. 8.—(P)—A deafening whistle shrielled from the depths of seething Mount Etna early today as a column of trucks bore the last frightened residents from tiny Milo village, menaced by the oncoming lava tide.

Volcano experts said the piercing whistle apparently came from a lava-blocked crater, as pent-up gases forced their way into the open.

An aerial survey disclosed that molten lava was pouring out of some two score small craters scattered over a wide sector 6,500 feet above sea level.

This discovery ruled out the possibility of dropping bombs from planks to divert the flowing lava from the inhabited area.

Removal of the population and their belongings from Milo and neighboring Renazzo.

It said that none of the prisoners taken had the slightest idea they were fighting U. N. forces. Instead they thought they were fighting South Koreans.

The political committee then launched into its debate on a six-nation demand for the immediate withdrawal of the Chinese Communists.

J. H. Short, Jr., Succeeds Ross

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(P)—President Truman today appointed Joseph H. Short, Jr., Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, as presidential press secretary.

Announcement of Short's selection was made by Stephen T. Early, who has been acting as press secretary since Charles G. Ross died suddenly Tuesday night.

Early said he was happy to say that Mr. Truman had chosen Short as his "personal selection." A former member of the Associated Press bureaus at Richmond, Va., and Washington, Short has been assigned to the Baltimore Sun's Washington bureau since 1943.

Relief From Severe Cold

Midwest Gets it As Chilling Blasts Move Eastward

By the Associated Press

A surge of cold air and snow moved into the eastern states today after damaging winds and rain whipped across the storm-harassed area.

At the same time, the midwest shoveled out of the season's heaviest snowfall and the south got some relief from a severe cold snap.

Winds of gale force which battered Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland yesterday, swept into the New England coastal region today. Shipping was hampered.

Power lines were knocked out. The strong winds uprooted trees and blew off rooftops of houses in many parts of the storm belt.

The snowstorm over the mid-continent left a carpet of white measuring as much as 44 inches in northern Michigan. There was much drifting but forecasters said the winds would diminish during the day.

Rising temperatures also were in prospect, with no sub-zero predicted tonight. Snow, however, continued today over most of the north central region.

Rain pelted wide areas of the middle Atlantic and eastern seaboard states. Gale winds of 50 to 60 miles were forecast for the New England coastal areas. Abnormally high tides were in prospect along the coast in Connecticut, Rhode Island and the Massachusetts Cape Cod area.

Gusts of 91 miles an hour at Erie, Pa., shattered windows and cancelled air flights. Winds ranging from 40 to 60 mph whipped across western and central Pennsylvania.

Texas looked for a warming after a three-day freeze which caused damage to the tender vegetable crop in the lower Rio Grande valley. Fruit trees escaped serious damage. The cold weather was blamed for three deaths. Many of the valley's 40,000 vegetable acres had been harvested but the remainder was wiped out as temperatures dropped below freezing yesterday. The damage in dollars was not estimated.

News dispatches said a snowstorm prevented Allied planes from supporting these forces today. However, the navy said that navy and marine fliers yesterday flew 507 sorties, most of them in direct support of the withdrawing troops. These flights were in addition to about 250 flown by the air force in the combined effort to blast an escape route for the leathernecks, American infantrymen and British marine commandos.

The air force said that its big C-119 troop and equipment carriers were also giving direct aid to the imperiled forces. Yesterday these planes dropped eight bridge spans by parachute to enable the Allied force to cross a river.

The navy confirmed press reports that United Nations forces had abandoned Chinnampo, the Yellow sea port of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. After all Allied ground troops were clear of the port, an Allied destroyer force including Australian, Canadian and American ships turned their guns on the port area "rendering it useless to the enemy."

The attempt at voluntary restraint will be aided, by the establishment of labor-management consumer council for major segments of industry who would act as watchmen over inflationary problems.

Valentine told questioners that ESA has been "very busy" setting up the criteria by which it would decide whether price and wage boosts were desirable.

He said also the agency is watching steel prices—which rose an average of 5½ per cent recently—with the "greatest of interest, company by company."

"We'll probably be seeing the steel people from time to time," Valentine added.

He did not rule out the possibility, when the question was put, of a roll-back in steel prices. As steel as in other materials, he said, ESA "can and will roll back prices if we feel we should."

He did not rule out the possibility, when the question was put, of a roll-back in steel prices. As steel as in other materials, he said, ESA "can and will roll back prices if we feel we should."

ESA's attention will be given first to the basic defense materials, which would include steel, copper, zinc, nickel and most other metals as well as many chemicals—to prevent a serious rise in the cost of rearmament.

Valentine re-emphasized that if price control is applied in any industry, wage stabilization measures will be taken simultaneously in the same industry. This, he said, is plainly the "intent of Congress" as expressed in the Defense Production Act.

naval forces.

The east coast port of Wonsan, 50 air miles south of Hungnam, was evacuated by sea Wednesday under covering fire by three U. S. destroyers. Wonsan had been garrisoned by U. S. Third division elements.

Positions Consolidated
In the northwest, below Red-occupied Pyongyang, the U. S. Eighth army consolidated positions on its newly-formed defense line.

Allied patrols probed for advance elements of 18 Chinese divisions moving toward the line. A few skirmishes were reported.

AP correspondent Don Whitehead reported that up to 40,000 well armed guerrillas—mostly reorganized North Korean troops—are operating behind the Eighth army line and on its extreme right flank.

These hit-run raiders, he added, are increasingly harrassing U. N. forces.

But the plight of the Americans trapped south of Changjin reservoir was of more immediate concern.

In northwest Korea, a Netherlands battalion moved into the allied line and a Thai (Siamese) battalion relieved ROK elements there.

Already up front were ROK, American, British, Australian and Turkish forces.

MacArthur's spokesman said secondary positions are being prepared above parallel 38. United Nations forces will fall back to which are not believed to be serious.

The first was at 11:55 o'clock at Thirteenth street and Ingram avenue, where two cars collided doing considerable damage to both. Mrs. George Mein, 1218 East Twelfth street, riding in the car with her husband suffered a bruised right knee, the injury not considered serious.

A 1940 Chevrolet sedan driven by Carl Diederick, 1615 South Lamine avenue, headed south on Ingram avenue, and a 1946 Chevrolet sedan driven by Mr. George Mein going west on Thirteenth street, collided.

The front end of the Diederick car was badly smashed and the right rear door and fender on the Mein car was damaged.

At 12:33 o'clock, a 1941 Chevrolet sedan driven by Donnie Cooper, rural route two, Sedalia, crashed into a tree on the northeast corner of Fourteenth street and Ohio avenue. George McPatrick, Spring Fork, a passenger in the car was injured.

McPatrick was injured on the top of his head and he was taken to the hospital in the Ewing ambulance. X-ray pictures will be taken to determine the extent of the injuries.

The front part of the automobile was badly wrecked.

News dispatches said a snowstorm prevented Allied planes from supporting these forces today. However, the navy said that navy and marine fliers yesterday flew 507 sorties, most of them in direct support of the withdrawing troops. These flights were in addition to about 250 flown by the air force in the combined effort to blast an escape route for the leathernecks, American infantrymen and British marine commandos.

The air force said that its big C-119 troop and equipment carriers were also giving direct aid to the imperiled forces. Yesterday these planes dropped eight bridge spans by parachute to enable the Allied force to cross a river.

The navy confirmed press reports that United Nations forces had abandoned Chinnampo, the Yellow sea port of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. After all Allied ground troops were clear of the port, an Allied destroyer force including Australian, Canadian and American ships turned their guns on the port area "rendering it useless to the enemy."

The attempt at voluntary restraint will be aided, by the establishment of labor-management consumer council for major segments of industry who would act as watchmen over inflationary problems.

Valentine told questioners that ESA has been "very busy" setting up the criteria by which it would decide whether price and wage boosts were desirable.

He said also the agency is watching steel prices—which rose an average of 5½ per cent recently—with the "greatest of interest, company by company."

"We'll probably be seeing the steel people from time to time," Valentine added.

He did not rule out the possibility, when the question was put, of a roll-back in steel prices. As steel as in other materials, he said, ESA "can and will roll back prices if we feel we should."

Shamrock is Doing Well In Missouri

By George Sitterley

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 8.—(P)—Faith and begorrah, the shamrock grows well in Missouri.

It's now a year that transplanted James Anthony Markey has had his roots in Missouri. At 6½ years, he's Jimmy King Prior, off to a flying start in the first grade.

The little son of Erin got quite a reception here 12 months ago when he flew from Ireland to a new home in America. His foster mother, Mrs. Prior, went to New York to meet the youngster the Prior's had adopted from a Dublin orphanage.

With little boy courage he faced this new world—a new set of parents and a whole new round of friends and relatives. Now he's lost much of the Irish brogue he brought with him and he mixes well with new playmates.

He still remembers the former orphanage pal who won him this new life. Charley Robertson, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Robertson, Marshall, Mo., said prayers nightly for his glum, "tony." The prayers were answered when the Robertsons and their friends the Priors talked the thing over.

The Priors, childless, adopted "Tony."

They planned to call him Thomas King Prior. But the youngster insists he's "Jimmy." He liked that name because a trans-Atlantic plane stewardess called him that in friendly fashion.

He's a real American cowboy now and wears his six-gun cap pistols low on the hips with old fashioned swagger and bravado.

Boylife, he'd much rather hunt down a few rustlers than worry about school stuff.

him in high esteem. Roosevelt recognized his ability as a statesman, Truman, also values him, and, continued the speaker, through my association with him, in hearing him talk on and off the record, my faith in him has never been shaken. Mr. Burrowes told of how each night Acheson would write a letter to his ill daughter and someday the speaker said he believed that these letters would be published as a diary to give the true picture of the man as he really is.

World Need of Prayer

The state that the world is in today has been caused by a series of things that have been done that shouldn't have been done and things that shouldn't have been done and were done through the years and the only thing that will bring back peace is prayer. We must discard the false gods and golden calves and return to God who asks that we only love him and serve him the speaker said. What the world needs most today is prayer—to pray as we prayed as children at mother's knee—prayer that comes from the heart, for prayer has saved civilization before, he said, it can do it again.

Mr. Burrowes was introduced by Miss Mary Shanks, co-chairman of the Publicity department, with Miss Rosemary Burrowes, sister of the speaker, who was unable to attend because of illness.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Miss Hazel Barnett, and invocation was by Mrs. Lily Thomas.

Christmas Songs

Singing of songs of the Christmas season was led by Miss Irene Richey with Mrs. Donald Donath as the accompanist.

A male quartet composed of Paul Ginn, Aubrey Case, Carl Yessen and Ralph Hodges sang several numbers, "I Had A Dream Dear," "Old Man Noah" and "The Tack" and were called back for an encore at which time they sang "Coney Island."

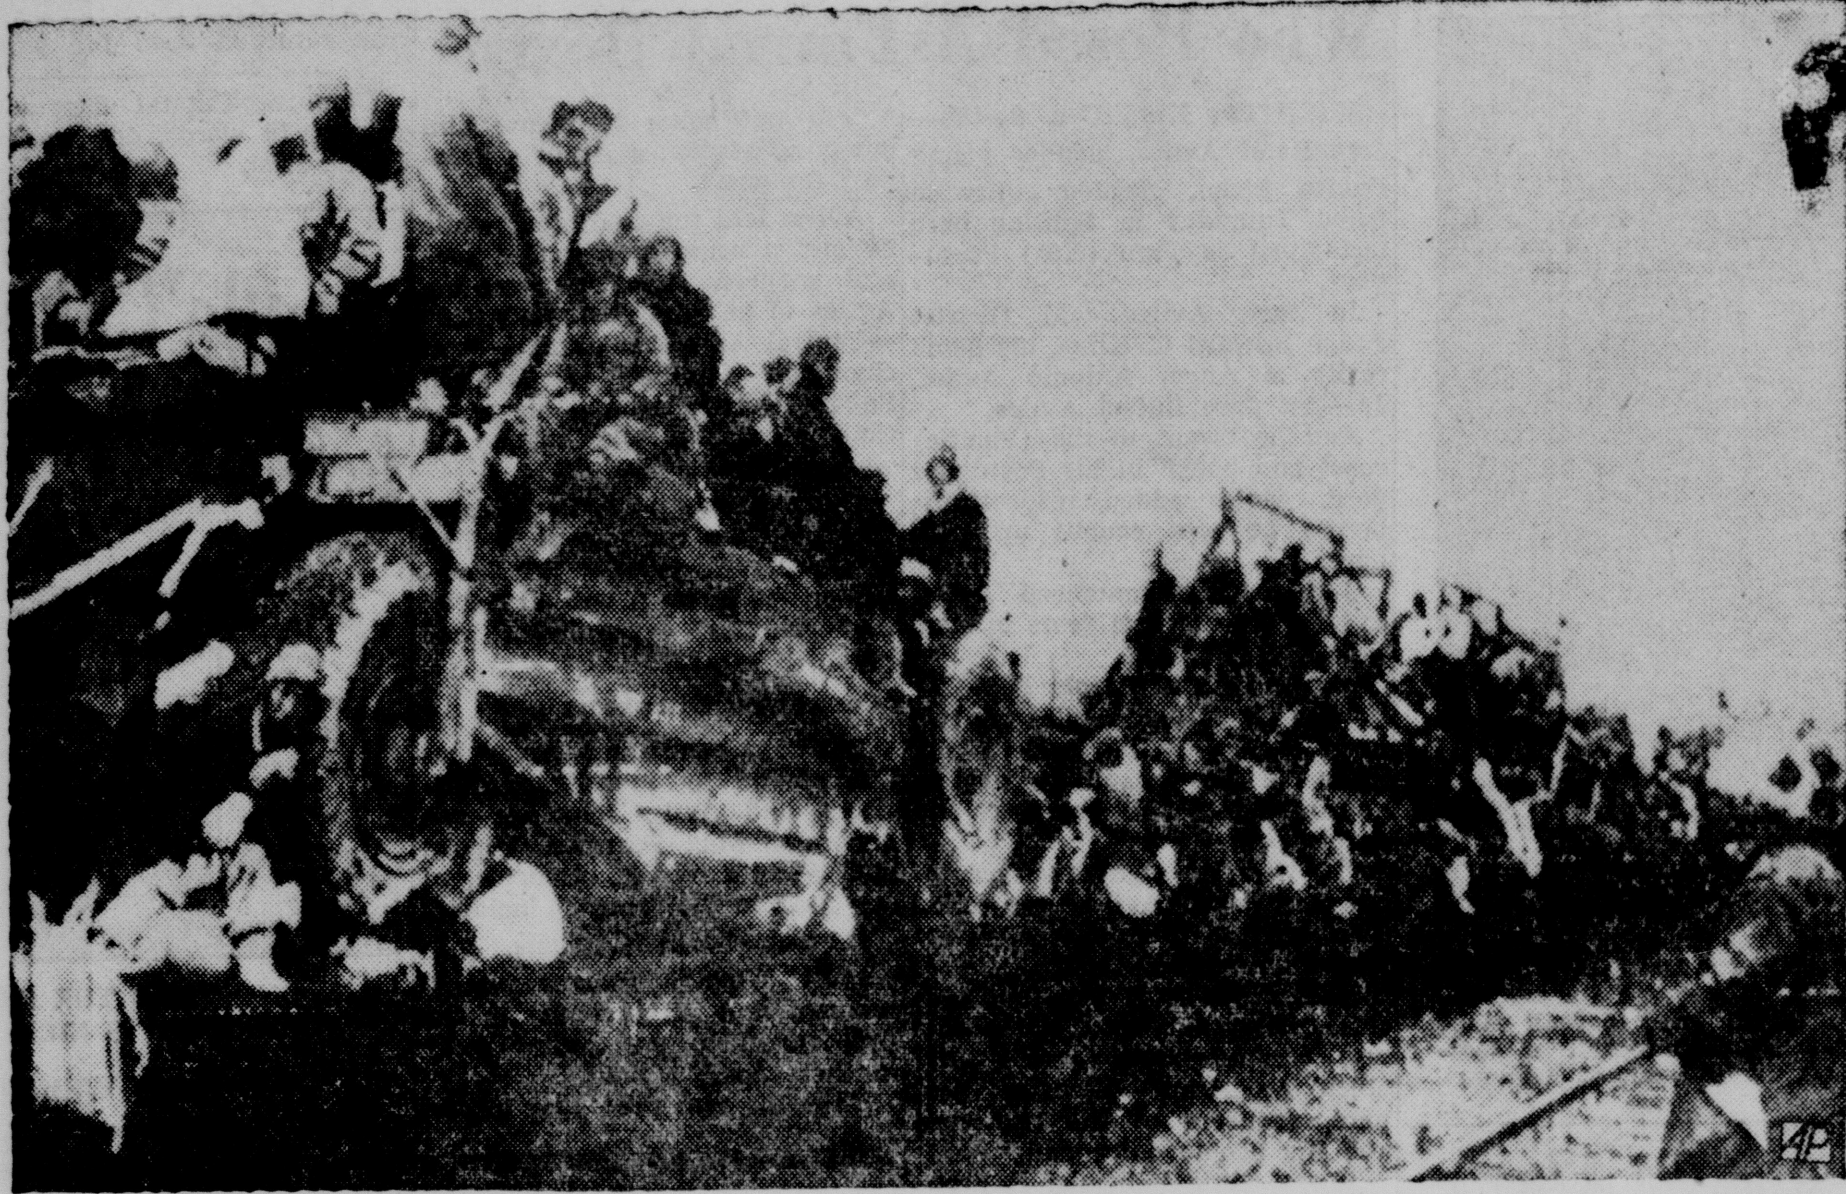

Guests were introduced by Miss Barnett as follows: Mr. and Mrs. George H. Trader, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Scruton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Love, Miss Minnie Murphy, Miss Blanche Faust, Miss Joan Hartman, Mark Burrowes, of Fort Worth, Tex., brother of the speaker, Mrs. Patrick Darnell, Miss Rosalie Mountjoy, Mrs. Paul Ginn, Mrs. D. A. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Kemp, of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Olive Edmiston, of St. Louis, Mrs. Roy Colaflower, Mrs. A. B. Wild and Mrs. Ralph Hodges.

Committee Members

Members of the committee were Miss Rosemary Burrowes, chairman, Miss Mary Shanks, co-chairman, Miss Mary Ellen Merrill, Mrs. Paul Carpenter, Mrs. E. A. Jackson, Mrs. L. H. Lehmer, Mrs. Mildred Rose, Miss Anna Sitton, and Mrs. Robert Tyler.

Fire Village Communist

CARMEL, Calif., Dec. 8.—(P)—This artist and writers colony fired its village "Communist" last night.

Norman Duxbury, 67, was relieved by the city council of his unpaid duties as caretaker of the city's Forest theatre. He was given 15 days to move out of a rent-free shack on the grounds.

Duxbury startled town officials two months ago when he announced he was a Communist—and signed the state loyalty oath required of public employees.

Pressed for an explanation, Duxbury said he was a Communist, but hadn't joined the Communist party.

Nor did he believe in overthrowing the government by force or violence—"the government's so rotten it'll fall by itself."

Agree to Pay On Price Fixing

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 8.—(P)—Three auto parts companies agreed today to pay fines of $2,500 each and quit fixing prices on champion spark plugs.

The agreement was filed in the Missouri supreme court along with an anti-trust suit brought by Attorney General J. E. Taylor against nine auto parts wholesalers. It is one of a series of anti-trust suits in the last year.

The three agreeing to the fine were Authorized Motor Parts Corporation of St. Louis, Fred Campbell Auto Supply company of St. Louis and General Auto Parts company of Kansas City. The agreement is subject to approval of the court, which will fix costs in the case.

Theft of Money And Whisky at Bar

The Main Street Bar, 109 East Main street, was robbed by a thief, or thieves, early today according to a report and investigation the latter conducted by the police.

A complete check of merchandise is being made to determine the exact amount of loss.

The thief apparently was locked inside the place of business at closing time, then ransacked the place taking $25.00 in money and it is known one case of Seagrams' whiskey. Departure was made by breaking a rear door to the place.

Four Killed As Buses Collide

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 8.—(P)—Four persons were killed and 13 injured today when a bus carrying Catholic pilgrims to Lo Vasquez sanctuary on the Santiago-Valparaiso road collided with another bus.

boughs, pine cones and Christmas tree ornaments made by Miss Shanks were used as decorations, as well as oil roping and lighted red candles in crystal star holders. The centerpiece on the speakers table was of bright red carnations with one lighted red candle.

Clever printed programs on the front of which were cut out Santas designed and made by Miss Mary Ellen Merrill, were at each plate. Miss Merrill and Miss Shanks were assisted with the decorations by other members of the committee.

Fatally Injured in Running From Bath

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(P)—A five-year-old boy who fell down the stairway of his home while running from a bath, died in Temple University hospital today of a skull fracture and internal injuries.

Detective Sgt. Bernard O'Donnell said the boy's mother, Mrs. Genevieve Szczypkowski, 30, is free under $500 bail charged with having beaten him with a strap. O'Donnell said the mother will be rearrested and charged with homicide.

Richard Szczypkowski was injured Sunday night shortly after his father, Frank, former policeman, who is now a soldier in the 28th Division, left for Camp Atterbury (Ind.) at the expiration of his week-end leave.

O'Donnell said the mother told him she beat Richard with a strap when he refused to eat. She also told the sergeant that Richard fell down the stairway while running away from her when she tried to give him a bath.

Sees No Debacle In Korean War

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 8.—(P)—Lt. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, Army comptroller general, said tonight, "I am certain there will be no debacle in Korea."

"My guess is that our forces will hold where they want to hold," he told a national Junior Chamber of Commerce banquet gathering.

General McLain said that the Army, concerned with the impact any sudden move toward all-out war would have on the nation's economy, is mobilizing carefully.

He listed the three major threats to peace as inflation, the police state and world communism.

The general was principal speaker of an all-day Pearl Harbor day ceremony climaxed by the laying of a cornerstone for the U.S. Jaycee headquarters building here.

Sharp Advance On The Egg Market

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(P)—Fresh egg prices advanced two to nine cents a dozen in the wholesale market today. Lower grades made the most advance in Chicago mercantile exchange quotations.

The new advances brought the total rise in the last month to 12 to 28 cents a dozen. A month ago eggs had dropped to the lowest prices in the preceding month, but the upward movement has been uninterrupted since Nov. 8.

At the new levels top grade eggs reached 75 cents which, the exchange said, was "at least a 30-year high mark."

Minors Vote Rule Changes

Officials Scuttle High School Pact, Bonus Player Law

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The bonus rule and high school agreement were scuttled by baseball's minor leagues Thursday in sweeping unanimous votes.

At the end of a lengthy closed session it was announced that George Trautman, President of the National Association of Minor Leagues, had been voted a new five-year contract.

Salary remained the same at $35,000 yearly. Trautman's old contract still had a year to go, but the minors scrapped it.

43 Big Leaguers Effected
Some 43 big leaguers, 25 in the National and 18 in the American, will be vitally effected if the majors do the expected and also toss out the bonus next week.

Players like Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 bonus baby, then could be sent out for further experience. Under the old rule, Pettit and all other bonus players (paid from $6,000 to 3,000 for signing) had to stay with the parent club once their contracts were moved up to the majors.

Most clubs signed bonus players to minor league contracts originally. Then they played one season before the majors pulled them up. Once up they couldn't go down, except by passing through the waiver grab bag.

Opinions Split On Change

While virtually all clubs were eager to get rid of the cumbersome bonus rule, the high school agreement was a different matter. "A great majority want a high school rule," said President George Trautman of the National Association of Minor Leagues, "but not the present one."

An eight-man committee is to be named to draw up a new agreement permitting baseball to discuss terms with schoolboys particularly during their senior year.

The old agreement will still be in effect until it expires Dec. 31, 1951. Baseball felt its men were at a disadvantage in competing with football contact men. Scouts have been afraid to approach a boy for fear he might be declared a free agent and their club punished.

Chandler Will Not Object

Commissioner A. B. Chandler has been a strong supporter of the high school rule at all times, but it is understood he will not object strenuously to a revision.

After passing the resolution to end the high school agreement in 1951, the minors adopted a diplomatic resolution pointing out that they wanted to work out a new rule.

Tigers to Play Kemper Tonight

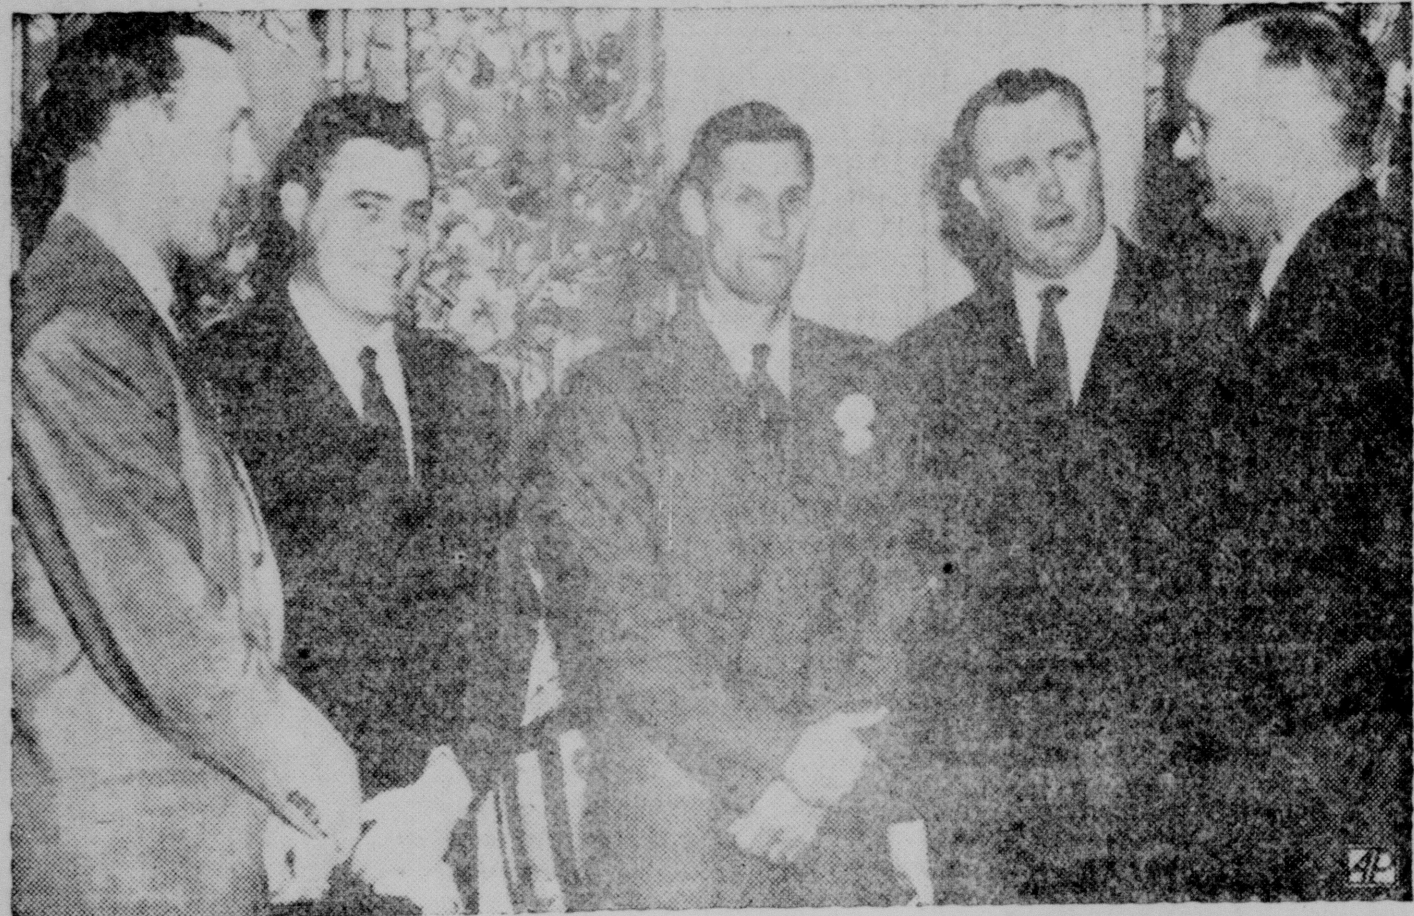

The Smith-Cotton Tigers journey to Booneville tonight to meet Kemper Military Academy Yellow Jackets on the Kemper hardwood.

Still sporting their five game winning streak, after the Raytown game was postponed because of dangerous roads, the Bengals will be out to cope with one of the strongest teams that Kemper has put on the court for a number of years.

In the CEMO tourney, which Smith-Cotton won handily, the Yellowjackets were put out of the championship chase in the first round by the Jefferson City Jays by a 34-32 score. The Bengals trounced the Jays in the finals 51-40.

Coach Jim Ball will carry 10 men on the 45 mile jaunt. They are as follows: Bill Morgan, Bill McGrady, Bob Shawver, Ed Johnson, Claude Murphy, Bill Cooper, Pat Forbis, Richard Lanning, Floyd Burton, and Tom Menefee who edged Don Potter from the traveling roster.

K. C. Cols Meet Hubbard Tonight On Local Court

The Hubbard high school basketball team will play its first home game tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the Hubbard high school gym.

Opponents will be the strong R. T. Cols five from Kansas City.

After losing the first two games the Tigers have been hard at work this week preparing to win their first home game. Coach Atkins thinks that both he and his boys have profited by the mistakes made in the first two games and expects to put up a real scrap tonight.

Starting for the Tigers will be Alvin Jones and Paul Fitzpatrick at forwards, Carl Whitney at center and Everette Payne and Floyd Payne as guards.

The Tigerettes, our fast stepping girls' team, will play at 7:30 o'clock in a preliminary game. Some of those who look promising are Lolita Carter, Arline Carter, Lemma Jean Gray, Coletta Byrd, Marian Black and Wilene Brown.

An added attraction will be a demonstration by the cheer leaders and pep squad between the halves and also during the game.

CBC Overwhelms Clinton's Elks By 68-26 Count

Central Business college, featuring a smooth-functioning, well-rounded attack, completely overwhelmed the Clinton Elks 68-26 in the feature contest of a basketball doubleheader Thursday night in the Sacred Heart gym.

Hillard Willie paced the CBC attack with 14 points, followed closely by 11 counters by Foster McGuire; the versatile CBC offense numbered eight men with six or more points. Harvey of Clinton was the high-point man for the evening with 15.

The business college quintet was in control all the way leading 37-11 at the half, and 48-19 at the three-quarter mark. Largely responsible for the difference was the fine rebound work of Willie and Bob Jackson, lanky CBC forward.

In the opening game the Ottaville Independents shaded Sedalia Town and Country 30-26 in a rugged defensive battle. Dean Edwards of TC and Marvin Burford of Ottaville each scored ten points to lead their teams.

Judge Paroles Puerto Rican Who Posed As Famed Boxer

WICHITA, Kas., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Jose Rafael Aviles, slender young Puerto Rican, pleaded guilty to fraud Thursday in fighting here last April as Tuzo (Kid) Portuquez.

In fact, Aviles told District Judge Howard C. Kline, his name really is Angel Antonio Aviles, Jr.—not Jose Rafael Aviles.

And he "went to the (Pacific) coast and back" in his Portuguese pose, Aviles added respectfully, before he was caught up with here.

Judge Kline sentenced Aviles to serve one to five years in state prison at Lansing.

Unable To Pay Parole Fee
Then he paroled Aviles for two years—and sent him back to jail when he was unable to put up approximately $110 for costs and parole fees.

"It will be eight months tomorrow" since Aviles was jailed here on the fraud charge, Judge Kline observed.

He said he took that into consideration—"also that the parole was recommended by the Disabled American Veterans post here, sponsors of the pro card and the people defrauded."

Judge Kline indicated it probably won't cost Aviles $110 to get out of jail, adding:

"I'm not going to throw him out now, without a job or a prospect for one."
Aviles told the court that while he and a companion toured several western cities, representing Aviles to be "the Portuguese Kid"—Central American middleweight champion familiar to Madison Square Garden fans—he at no time personally told anyone he was Portuguese.

Judge Kline said Aviles insisted he signed the contract at Wichita as Portuguese because his companion "told him it was all right," that "ringers" were being used here.

Companion Disappears

But that companion never has been found by investigating officers, and Aviles long ago exonerated Max Yeargain, Topeka and Wichita boxing promoter, of any guilt in the "ringer" incident.

It took Alvin Williams, 161-pounds Wichita Indian, just 2 minutes and 33 seconds of the first round to put Aviles away in their April 5 bout.

Then the real Portuguese turned up protesting—in New York City where he'd been all the time. Aviles, arrested at Kansas City, was returned here for trial.

THE A B C's OF DRY CLEANING

By Dooc Bob, Your Dry Cleaner

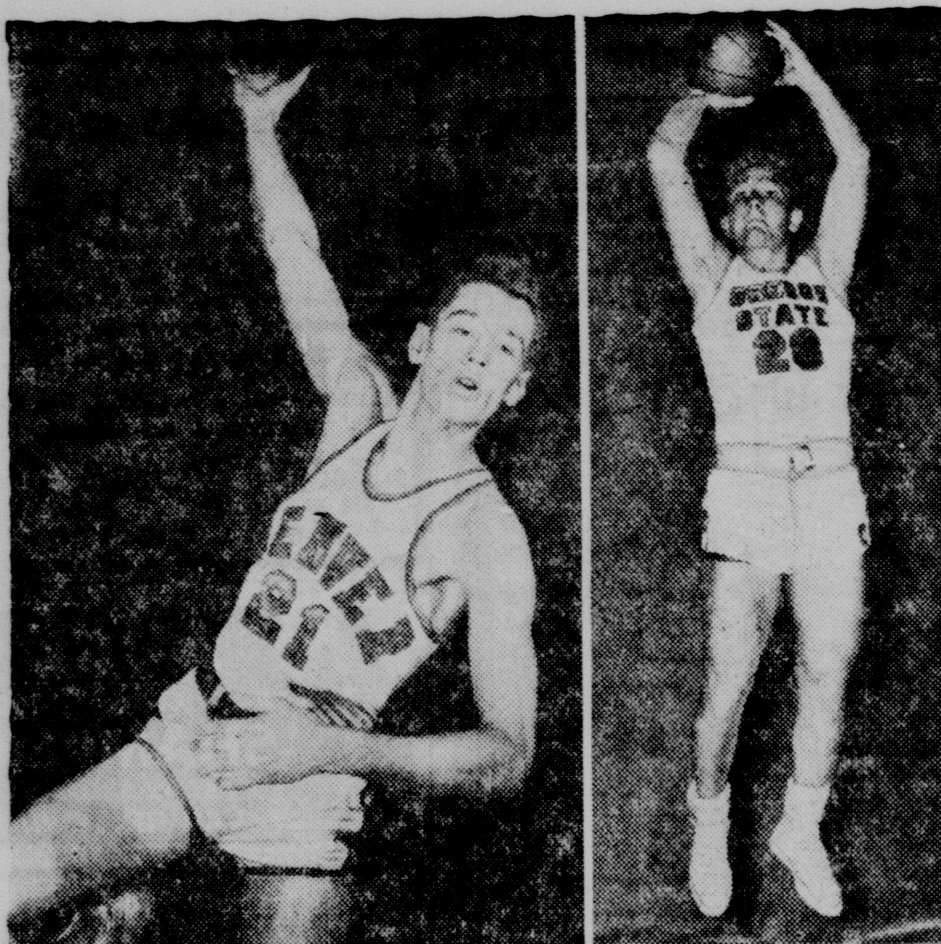

The homemaker can help herself toward greater satisfaction in wearing apparel by more careful scrutiny at the time of purchase. There are books and pamphlets written especially for her that will give her a better understanding of fibers, weaves, and finishes used on fabrics. The knowledge she obtains will help her understand why some fabrics just naturally shrink, why some weaves are easily distorted, why seams fray, why the finish or dressing is not permanent. She may still want such fabrics for their beauty or novelty, but she will save herself disappointment when their serviceability proves limited!

ALL-AROUNDERS—These performers may mean the difference between just a good season and a conference title to their respective teams. Denver's Sid Ryan took home all the honors in the Sky-line Six last time. Oregon State's Danny Johnston, the question mark of the Pacific Coast Conference's Northern Division, burned up the floor at Compton, Calif., Junior College. Kansas State's Ed Head sticks out in the Big Seven.

RHUBARBS—Arms outstretched, Jim Cain told Marchie Schwartz and Quarterback Gerry Kerkorian, 17, that's the way he saw it after calling back a Stanford play against California in Berkeley for shoving. Next Coach Schwartz pointed out what he believed to be a wrong call on the part of the referee.

Fighter Dies After Knockout

MERCED, Calif., Dec. 8.—(P)—Samuel J. Lopez, 26, a professional boxer who fought as Johnny Lopez, died last night after being knocked out in a charity show. Lopez, of Richmond, Calif., was knocked out in a preliminary bout of the Elks club boxing show. He died at Merced General hospital from a brain hemorrhage, according to Dr. C. C. Fitz-Gibbon. Lopez, at 128 pounds, was matched against Joe Madrid, 127, of Stockton, Calif., he was floored in the second round for a count of eight with a left to the mid-section. Getting up, he threw one wild punch, which missed, then was knocked out with a short right to the chin.

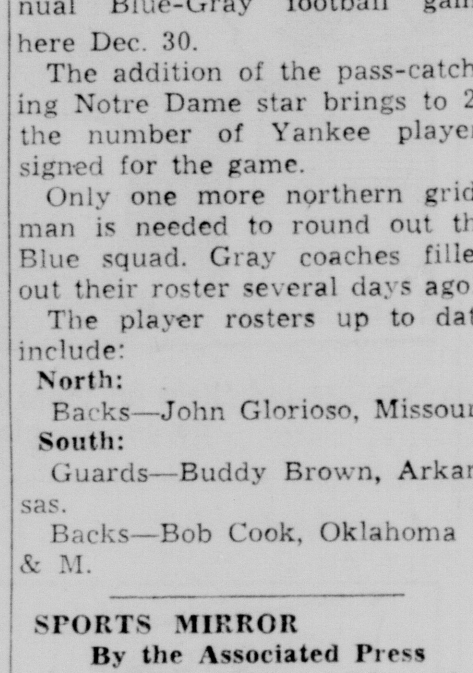

Co-Captains For Central Team

FAYETTE, Mo., Dec. 8.—(P)—Joe Villers and Jim Englehard have been elected co-captains of Central college's 1950 football team. Gil Georgeff, halfback and an Associated Press little all-America nominee, was voted the most valuable player by his squad mates. Villers, a guard from Lowell, Ind., and Englehard, a tackle from Ishpeming, Mich., were all MCAU and key linemen in a team that won 5 games and lost 3 and tied one in its first season under the coaching of Aldo Sebben. Coach Sebben awarded 25 letters and nine provisional letters to his Eagles.

Wilkinson Declines Offer By Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 8.—(P)—Bud Wilkinson, football coach at University of Oklahoma Thursday turned down a similar post at the University of Minnesota. Tim Armstrong, athletic director, said Wilkinson had told him in person he was not in a position to accept the head grid coaching job, from which Bernie Bierman resigned last month. "President James L. Morrill, at my request, also telephoned Wilkinson at Norman, Okla. But was turned down," Armstrong reported. He said Dr. Morrill had also talked with President Cross of Oklahoma but without success. Armstrong quoted Wilkinson as saying he appreciated the chance to return to Minnesota, his alma mater, but that his contract had three more years to run at Oklahoma and carried a no-release clause.

Mike Ryba Signs To Coach Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 8.—(P)—Mike Ryba signed Thursday as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals under manager Marty Marion. Ryba, a veteran pitcher and general handyman, managed Louisville of the American Association last year. He played major league ball with the Cardinals and Boston Red Sox. He had been mentioned around the minor league meeting here as the Card coach or manager of the

Christianity and Communism

Wise men may sometimes learn from their enemies. The Christian world is disturbed over the fact that Communism now casts its shadow over half the globe. Confronted with this phenomenon, Christians may profitably be reminded of the results which can be achieved by wholehearted devotion to a cause.

There is no gainsaying the determination of Communist leadership or the zeal of the Communist rank and file. However deeply the Christian may abhor the Communist ideology, he cannot but recognize how successfully it has worked to capture the imagination and loyalty of millions of supporters.

In the beginning, Christianity itself was looked upon as a revolutionary movement which had to be suppressed at all costs. But the spirit of the early Christians was too strong to be crushed. Neither martyrdom nor proscription could prevent Christianity's ultimate triumph over a hostile paganism.

Today Communists are showing the same tenacity and self-dedication in the hope that they, too, will achieve the goal of universal recognition and acceptance. Their leaders are encouraged by what they regard as the passivity and laggardism of great masses of professing Christians.

Every loyal Christian is opposed to Communism because it is evil both in aims and methods. Nevertheless Communism remains a persistent menace which is bound to keep growing unless it is met by forces that are greater and stonger than itself.

Recently a well-known clergyman declared: "The way to counteract the Kremlin's fellow-travelers is to have more church fellow-travelers."

The challenge that faces Christians is to become as fervent and self-sacrificing in their faith as the Communists are in theirs. The greatest deterrent to Communism would be a wholehearted awakening of the Christian spirit everywhere. Whether Christianity or Communism is to win the last battle depends on which group will command the most loyalty among its followers.

All who call themselves Christians are affected by the challenge. The least the individual can do is to make his life more and more a shining exemplification of the virtues and sense of social responsibility which his faith demands, especially in time of stress and difficulty.

A struggle is on that calls for an all-out Christian mobilization. Communist fervor must be out-matched by Christian fervor. Christian leaders must exert a more enlightened and generous influence in political and economic life. Christian schools must concentrate more intensively on preparing youth to meet social, moral and religious responsibilities.

Meanwhile, every vehicle of Christian expression must be employed to propagate those basic truths by which alone human happiness and security can be assured.

Sunday School Lesson

The Gospel Versus the World
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Gospel of Jesus Christ is the good news of God. In its message of love and grace, and its revelation of the true way of life, it is in strong contrast with the bad news of the world, which our morning paper brings us day by day.

This news is of war and strife, of international suspicions and distrusts, jealousies and hatreds, of cold wars and threatnings of tragedies of conflict abroad, and of crimes and gangsters, gamblers and grafters, greed, dishonesties and incompetencies in high places at home.

It is, of course, good news that if wars are fought, aggression and violence are being overcome. It is a satisfaction that so many in high places and in low are true patriots, setting the interests of their country and the welfare of their fellowmen above all considerations of personal interest and gain.

It is good to know that in the world, in all countries today, even under great trial and persecution so many are seeking to know and follow the Christian way of life. This dark world is not without rays of light and hope.

But the evil in the world is so great and so appalling, so scattered over the lives of men and so entrenched in high places of material might and power, that one might almost despair of the triumph of Christ and His Gospel. It is important, therefore, that we remember the condition of the Roman world in which the Christ lived on earth as did the Gospel, fulfilling the richness and greatness of the law and the prophets.

How did that Gospel take hold and spread in that indifferent, or hostile, environment? The Roman, trustful in the power of his might, and his world conquest, might well have looked with a scornful contempt upon a Jewish teacher and his few disciples.

Furthermore, the Christians talked about things strange to Roman ears: Of love, enemies, forgiveness, blessings on the poor in spirit and the meek, and of a kingdom of love and peace that would conquer the world.

The secret of that growth, which we must learn, and from which we must profit, could bring the Gospel to triumph in the world of today.

I think it was two-fold. It was, first of all, an intense devotion and loyalty of the disciples to their Master.

Secondly, they found the reality of His mission and purpose spiritually strengthening. And with this was the witnessing, testifying what they had heard and seen, and through others passing on the story to others in a continuous chain of spoken experience and power.

It is that sort of Christian witnessing the world needs today; and it is only in such witnessing to the power of the Gospel that the triumph of the Christ can come in such a world as this.

Hal Boyle Reports From Korea

By Hal Boyle

SEOUL — (AP) — Milly the Mouse is an adventuress.

She is a Korean version of the American victory girl of the Second World War. Her job is to entertain and dance with American officers in the only night club open in this wartime capital after dark. Night clubs for the enlisted men close at dusk.

Milly is a slender, black haired, dark-eyed girl of 21 who stands about five feet tall on her high heels. She is perhaps the best jitterbug in Seoul and she loves to show off.

Her broad small face gives such a look of child-like ecstasy when she is whirling with a good partner that even soldier wallflowers sitting lonely at her table like to watch and buy her a drink afterwards.

"It makes me feel better just to see anyone having such fun," one said. "Over here sometimes you forget there is such a thing as real fun left in the world."

This fun, however, is gradually destroying Milly the Mouse. Her popularity is becoming her own doom.

She is wearing out her vibrant body, her mind, and her soul — such as it is — trying to grab what quick economic security she can from a collapsing jitterbug world. She is a 20th century Becky Sharp — the heroine of William Makepeace Thackeray's "Vanity Fair."

But the odds are hopelessly stacked against Milly in this far eastern vanity fair. That is what makes her courage and her energy and her frank female opportunism so sad.

Wants a Nice GI

"All I want is to find a nice GI and marry him and go back to the United States with him and be happy," she says.

But so far she has encountered no matrimonial volunteers. Her dream is the dream of many Korean dancehall girls. She has a baby she says was fathered by an American soldier who never married her. And she estimates some 200 Korean girls in Seoul have the same problem. It is a bitter sorority, as the Korean men are crudely critical of their plight.

Sometimes their criticism has reached the point where they smash in the faces or cut off the hair of Korean girls left behind by their white American lovers.

Milly the Mouse is killing herself by being a double duty girl. She dances from 1 p. m. until 5:55 p. m. in an enlisted men's side-street dancehall. Then she rushes over to the Capitol club, the officers' hangout and keeps on her feet until 11 p. m.

She makes between $100 and $200 a month. That is a tremendous salary here. But her wardrobe is thin. And a new dress or winter coat costs $50 to $75.

Milly says she originally had everything a dancehall girl needs to be glamorous, but "the Communists took it all away from me."

This is undoubtedly an exaggeration but it is fashionable. Many dancehall girls love to pretend they were practically queens before the arrival of the nasty visitors from the north.

There is no real enduring security for girls like Milly. Because she sees no permanence in her life, because her energy is wearing low, she has taken to accepting the drinks she should turn down. And she drinks half a watery glass of whisky at a gulp. She doesn't know any better.

"Why everybody wants dance with Milly?" she giggles. Then she smiles with drunken com-

Last Wounded Taken From Pyongyang

The last wounded U. N. soldier to be evacuated from Pyongyang before it was abandoned by retreating United Nations forces is loaded aboard a transport plane at Pyongyang airfield. It was the last such plane out. Reports Dec. 5 indicated that Chinese Communists were entering the former North Korean capital. (AP Wirephoto) placency as a soldier says, "because you dance the best."

"I looking for man who give me evening dress, daytime dress, overcoat, two slip, two brassiere, two pairs silk stocking and one pair high heel shoes," she says. Then she adds dreamily:

"My baby need clothes, my mother sick, I got older brother in jail, my younger brother want go to America and study and I need house and jeep. You know GI want marry me?"

Then she says, "I sick . . . I must go hospital tomorrow."

She lies so outrageously that if she is called to task for it she explains candidly:

"I must make lies to live."

And that is probably the complete and utter truth as poor Milly's world now begins to fall apart around her.

Says Pilgrims Are Ill Housed

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Moslem pilgrims to Mecca have to put up with dark, stuffy rooms, totally inadequate sanitary arrangements, lack of ambulances and doctors, a Malayan Federal Councillor charged on his return from Mecca.

Tuan Sheik Ahmad asserted "as every pilgrim paid $56 to the Saudi Arabian Government, it should be the duty of that government to provide sanitary comforts." He added this was a matter for the respective Moslem governments to appeal to the Saudi Arabia Government.

Truman And Attlee Consider Blockade Of Red China Coast

Crisis Conference Is Expected To End After Session Today

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee met for a fifth time today, and were reported to be near or agreement on a broad program to deal with Communist aggression anywhere in the world.

The White House said the crisis conference probably would end tomorrow after a morning session.

The President and the British leader talked over "broad aspects of the present world situation" at a session which lasted one hour 20 minutes today, the White House said.

Two Children Burned To Death By Flaming Crankcase Grease

WICHITA, Kas., Dec. 7.—(P)—Two children were burned fatally here today when crankcase grease heating on the kitchen stove exploded and set fire to their home.

Wilma Jane Brotherton, 14, and her sister, Ada Louise, 12, died in a hospital late today, several hours after they were sprayed with the blazing grease.

Albert L. Brotherton, 54, father, and Claude Leon, 8, a son, were burned, but hospital attaches to-night said their condition was "good."

Two other children, Arthur, 6, and Dave, 7, were in another room at the time of the explosion and escaped injuries. Mrs. Ada Brotherton, the mother, was shopping at the time of the fire.

The house was gutted by flames.

Tipsy Chickens And Dogs Lead Revenuers To Whisky Still

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(P)—A flock of mash-happy chickens and two barking dogs figured today in the federal court trial of a man accused of making moonshine whisky.

Alcohol tax unit agents testified they followed the tipsy chickens and barking dogs from a still to the nearby house of Tommy Collyard.

Collyard denied ownership of the still. The case ended in a mistrial.

Ten Years For Piggy Bank Theft

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 7.—(P)—Charles Day, 55, of Chicago, has been sentenced to one to ten years in the Indiana state prison for stealing a piggy bank.

Day pleaded guilty yesterday to grand larceny. He was arrested Tuesday after a passerby reported seeing Day breaking open the piggy bank in an alley.

The bank contained $107.97. It was taken from the home of Mrs. Hazel G. Bower.

Ice And River Drop Stranded Barge Lines

GLASGOW, Mo., Dec. 7.—(P)—Ice and a five and one-half foot drop in the Missouri river has stranded a federal barge line towboat and seven barges at Glasgow in Howard county.

The boat, Minnesota, left Kansas City Nov. 22 for St. Louis. This was later than usual for the last trip. It tied up at Glasgow four days later because of ice.

U. S. Army engineers said the tow may be there all winter.

Find Two Dead In Hunters Pit

CHARLESTON, Mo., Dec. 7.—(P)—Two St. Louis hunters died apparently of asphyxiation while seated in a goose hunter's pit near the Mississippi river north of here yesterday, Sheriff Early Malcolm said today.

The victims, found dead by two companions yesterday afternoon, were identified as Joseph and Frank Kempf of Lemay Ferry Road, St. Louis county. They are believed to be in their 50s.

Their associates were Edgar C. Eime and Harvey G. Bauer also of St. Louis.

The bodies were removed from the pit early today and taken to a funeral parlor at Stikeston. Sheriff Malcolm said he was told by Eime that the four hunters had charcoal buckets to keep them warm. Snow fell heavily during yesterday in this area and the mercury dropped rapidly during the day.

The four arrived at the pits about 8 yesterday morning and Eime said he decided to investigate when he saw no activity around the pit occupied by the brothers early in the afternoon.

Christmas Spirit Has Been Restored

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—(P)—Nine-year-old David Sayre had saved some money he made running errands, and he went Christmas shopping.

He bought a $1.19 cigarette lighter for his father, Morris Sayre, a 59-cent purse for his mother, and a coin purse for his sister. But when he got home he was crying. Someone at a store counter had taken his bag of gifts while he wasn't looking.

A newspaper printed the story. Yesterday David received an anonymous letter saying: "I don't want you to feel bad at this time of the year, and hope the enclosed will restore your Christmas spirit."

The enclosed was five $1 bills.

Control Bill On Rent Passes House-Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Congress voted today for a temporary extension of federal rent controls. The Senate favored 60 days, the House 90. The difference will have to be adjusted in conference before the legislation is signed by President Truman.

The Senate passed its bill first, by a vote of 55 to 28. House passage on a 221 to 152 roll call an hour later.

Under the present rent law, the controls are due to go off at the end of this month except in communities which specifically vote to keep them until next June 30.

President Truman asked for a 90-day extension of the automatic decontrol feature, to give the new Congress which meets in January time to look over the rent situation in the light of changed conditions caused by the Korean war and the big rearmament drive. The Senate bill would keep the controls on through February, the House bill through March.

Republicans in both houses protested ineffectively that continuation of the controls is unjustified.

Senator Taft of Ohio attacked it in the Senate, and managed to muster 25 fellow Republicans and two Democrats—Byrd of Virginia and Connally of Texas—on his side. But 43 Democrats and 12 Republicans teamed up to put the legislation across.

On the House showdown 190 Democrats, 30 Republicans and one American-Laborite lined up for the bill. Opposed were 33 Democrats and 119 Republicans.

Body Found In An Apartment

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(P)—The body of an attractive, 27 year old strawberry blonde was found early today in the swank apartment of Jörn Ahlers, 32, Danish vice consul in Chicago.

Police Lt. John Leabeater said he believes the woman, Mrs. Marion Herben, took 12 sleeping tablets. Her body, fully clothed, was found on a couch in the study of Ahler's eighth floor suite in the gold coast area of the near north side.

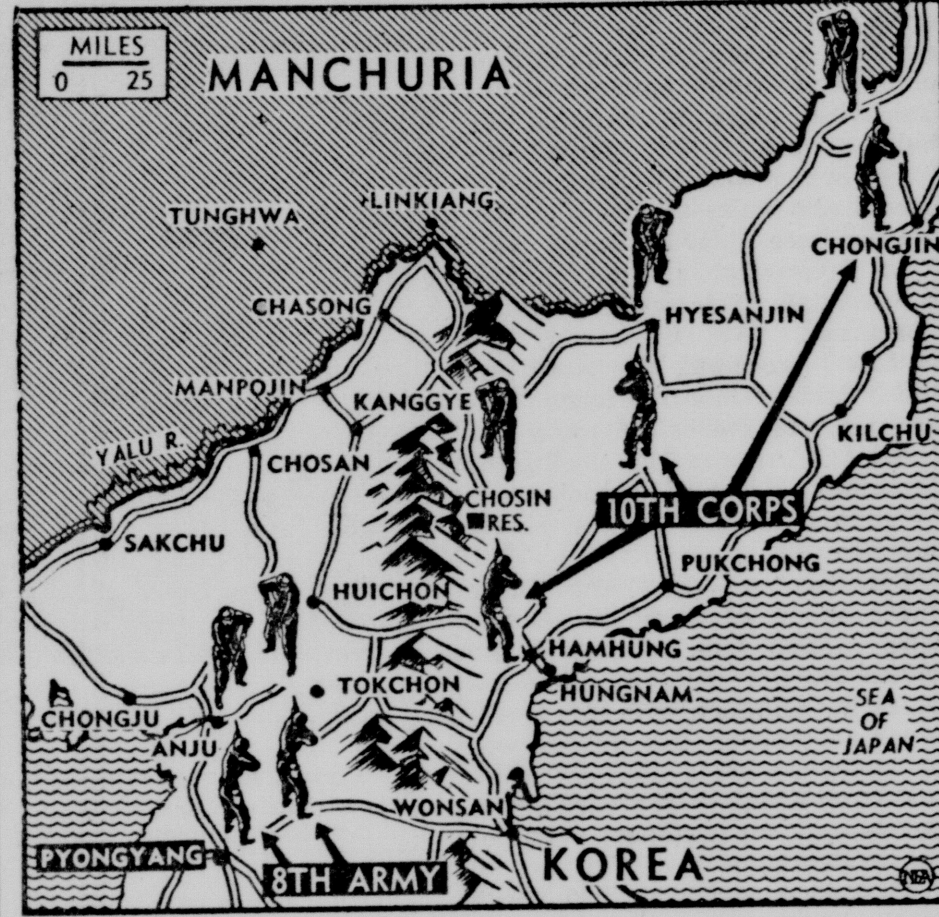

Ahlers, the lieutenant said, gave a signed statement and was released.

Leabeater said Mrs. Herben's note said she had visited Ahler's apartment early last night and found another woman visiting him. Ahlers discovered her body when he returned to the apartment early today, after attending a dinner party in suburban Kenilworth.

Police said Mrs. Herben left a two-page note in which she told Ahlers that if he called a doctor to "bring me back to life," she would assume it would mean that "you want me to be a part of your life. . . That you want to marry me."

Ahlers called a physician and a police rescue squad, which worked an hour in a futile attempt to revive her.

Mrs. Herben in the note reproached Ahlers because she had found him with another woman, Lt. Leabeater said.

DIVIDED COMMAND—Map above shows how almost impassable mountain range down the center of North Korea fences off Lt. Gen. Walton Walker's Eighth Army in the west from Maj. Gen. Officials Say There Is No Question About The Need Of Wage And Price Control

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Influential White House officials said tonight that eventual price and wage controls are inevitable.

The date of their imposition, they said, depends primarily on the time required to set up the necessary administrative machinery.

These men, who are in daily contact with President Truman but who cannot be named, said there is no question that drastic steps will have to be taken to meet the new crisis arising out of the Chinese Communist invasion of Korea and its threat of a possible third world war.

A reporter questioned key presidential aides after Stephen T. Early, acting White House press secretary, said at a news conference there has been "broad general discussion" of an emergency proclamation, but that no decision has been made.

Early, pinch hitting as secretary because of the sudden death of presidential secretary Charles Ross, emphasized his belief that no decision is imminent.

Action Will Be Late—Later, other White House officials said they did not expect action quickly because of the immensity of the problem of enforcement.

"It will take a small army of men to enforce price controls," one of them said. "It is a step that no one likes to take."

Meantime, the government took two moves to hold down prices: 1. The Economic Stabilization Administration asked General Motors and Ford to suspend auto price increases announced this week, and requested other motor car makers to withhold any contemplated price boosts.

2. The Senate and House passed bills to prolong rent controls. The Senate bill would extend them for 60 days beyond Dec. 31, the House bill for 90 days. Differences will be ironed out in conference.

In Detroit, General Motors and

Ford said the government's hold-the-line request had not yet been received. Both declined comment.

There are differences of opinion within the administration over the advisability of "across the board" price controls as against selective controls, growing primarily out of the cost and personnel required for administration.

Whatever wage controls may ultimately be agreed upon will be in the nature of wage "stabilization," informants said. They did not define the term.

Virtually all White House officials, questioned as to the prospects of an emergency proclamation, agreed that the administration already has ample authority to act in both the price and wage stabilization fields under legislation passed this year.

Princess Lays Wreath On Tomb Of Soldier—ATHENS, Dec. 7.—(P)—Princess Elizabeth laid a wreath today on the tomb of the Greek unknown soldier. A crowd unofficially estimated at 250,000 watched the procession which preceded the ceremony.

Princess Elizabeth, heiress to the British throne, and her husband, Prince Philip, are visiting Greece.

Attempt To Buck Reds—But the Leathernecks and Doughboys who made it to Koto were joined with other marines. Together, they formed a battered but doughty force for an attempt to buck through an estimated 85,000 Chinese Reds flanking the 40-mile winding road to Hungnam.

Hungnam became the main escape port for the U. S. Tenth Corps in northeast Korea following the withdrawal of the American garrison from the Port of Wonsan, 50 miles south.

Wonsan, captured Oct. 10 by South Korean troops, was evacuated under cover of U. S. naval gunfire and shore fire by South Korean Marines.

For several weeks, a large force of by-passed North Korean Communists had menaced the port.

Alternate Defense Line Offers Allies Formidable Stand

TOKYO, Friday, Dec. 8.—(P)—The outnumbered U. S. Eighth Army welded a new 70-mile defense wall in north western Korea between Pyongyang and the 38th parallel Thursday for a stand against an approaching wave of Chinese Communists heading a 1,000,000-man Red Army.

In northeast Korea, trapped American Marines and infantrymen mustered for a new breakout smash through 85,000 Chinese Reds blocking the road to the east coast escape port of Hungnam.

The U. S. Eighth Army's new front in the west runs from Koksan in central Korea to the Yellow Sea port of Chinnampo.

The east-west line passes about 25 miles south of Pyongyang.

North Korean Communist capital abandoned by the allies in their fallback from positions once only 40 to 50 miles short of the Manchurian border.

A spokesman for General MacArthur announced the new allied line Thursday. It was an unprecedented advance identification of allied positions.

Positions Are Secret—Positions usually are not disclosed until the enemy attacks. The Reds have not yet struck at the new U. S. Eighth Army defense line.

The 70-mile arching front, the spokesman said, is not a solid line but a defense-in-depth—strong positions on commanding heights.

An estimated 100,000 Chinese Reds are facing the new U.N. front. Some 80,000 reserves are right behind the Communist attack echelon and hundreds of thousands more are grouping farther north in Korea and Manchuria.

To meet this overwhelming force, the allies have something less than the 110,000 men they had when they began to withdraw before a crushing Communist counteroffensive late in November.

Red Strength—Mystery—Whether the Reds attack in force remained to be seen. A few tried to cross the Taedong river estuary at Chinnampo, west end of the line, and come under vicious strafing attacks by allied warplanes.

Army briefers said the new line is prepared to meet heavy flank attacks.

Thirteen nations have appealed to Red China to stop its assault at the 38th parallel, the mythical dividing line between Red North Korea and Republican South Korea, but high Communist sources have so far only spurned the plea.

No one in the field doubts that the Reds will hit the new allied front as soon as they are in position to do so.

Allies Have Alternate Line—If the allies are forced to fall back from the Koksan-Chinnampo line, an even more formidable stand could be made in more rugged mountain terrain just south of the 28th parallel, a headquarters spokesman indicated.

Trapped elements of two Marine and two infantry regiments fought day and night to move eight miles from one trap at Hagaru on the south end of the Changjin reservoir into another trap at Koto. It took them 25 hours to drive through the Reds, who struck hard at their flanks as they plowed ahead through a blizzard.

More U. S. troops apparently were still to fight from Hagaru to Koto. There was no word of them.

Attempt To Buck Reds—But the Leathernecks and Doughboys who made it to Koto were joined with other marines. Together, they formed a battered but doughty force for an attempt to buck through an estimated 85,000 Chinese Reds flanking the 40-mile winding road to Hungnam.

2,000,000 China Nationalists Are Ready To Aid UN—WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to the U. S., said tonight the Chinese Nationalists have 2,000,000 troops ready to fight Communism in Asia.

These include, he said 600,000 trained soldiers on Formosa, plus "1,500,000 guerrillas actively engaged against the Chinese Communists" on the mainland.

Koo spoke in a radio interview by National Broadcasting Company commentator Richard Harkness.

Urging United Nations members to give America more military help in Korea, Koo said China's offer of 33,000 men to the U. N. for service in Korea "still stands."

Austin Says The UN Will Stick By Its Guns And Free People Of Korea

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 7.—(P)—Warren R. Austin today warned Communist China and its backers, the Soviet Union, that the United Nations will not bow to force in Korea. The chief U. S. delegate called on the U. N. to demand the withdrawal of Communist aggressors from Korea and to pass a moral judgment against aggression anywhere in the world.

"If those who are challenging the United Nations believe that we will give up our principles because they threaten us with mighty force, let them know that they are tragically mistaken," Austin told the grave-faced members of the U. N. Assembly's Political Committee.

He spoke after the committee voted down strong objections from Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky and put the Korean crisis ahead of all business. The vote was 42 to 5 (Soviet bloc).

Will Maintain Principles—"The United Nations will not swerve from its principles," Austin continued. "We will not give up our settled purpose to make Korea free and independent. We will not yield in our considered decision to make aggression impossible through this United Nations organization."

Austin's speech to the committee opened the tensely expected committee debate over the undeclared war in Korea and topped a fast moving day in the U. N.

The 13 Asian and Middle East sponsors of a peace appeal disclosed they have had no word from Peiping and they do not know when or if they will get an answer to their plea for the Red Chinese to stop at the 38th parallel. They held a brief huddle here and decided to meet from time to time to continue their efforts for peace. Two other countries, Turkey and Thailand, sat in this meeting. It was said they did not join in the first appeal because of their forces fighting in Korea.

Russians Stifle Issues—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky and delegates of White Russia, Soviet Ukraine, Poland and Czechoslovakia fought hard to put the Korean issue at the bottom of the committee work sheet. When they failed, Red China's envoy, Wu Hsiu-Chuan, walked out of the committee room.

Vishinsky told the committee that what it was doing would not ward off the threat of a third world war. He insisted the U. N. should consider first his charges of American bombing of Manchuria in some 100 forays. The U. S. has said any bombing of Manchuria was unintentional.

Vishinsky said the threat of a third world war will grow.

"Your actions are oil on that fire," he told the committee majority. "The intervention of American armed forces in Korea and the aggressive actions of American armed forces in Korea and the aggressive actions of American armed forces against China constitute the crux of the source of a third world war. Those actions must be halted if that threat is to be averted."

Austin Attacks Argument—Austin quickly tackled the Vishinsky contention that every Red Chinese in Korea is there as a volunteer rushing to the help of a beleaguered brother in North Korea. He cited numbers of actual units identified by Gen. MacArthur as fighting against the U. N. forces, said they total about 260,000 men with more coming, and declared Peiping was acting on behalf of the Russian colonial policy in Asia.

"The pattern is simple," Austin said. "Organize a Communist uprising in a country, or attack it through a neighbor; send in divisions to aid the aggressors, called the divisions 'volunteers'; and then protest that the international community has neither right nor interest in aiding the victim."

"Thus, the doctrine of 'volunteers' is revealed to this assembly as a new and dangerous weapon in the arsenal of Soviet imperialism. This body, I believe, will wish to examine this doctrine and to reject it."

Virginia Berry Is Bride Of Charles R. Eoff

In the candlelit sanctuary of the First Christian church, Seventh street and Massachusetts avenue, last Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Virginia Lee Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan A. Berry, was given in marriage by her father to Mr. Charles Robert Eoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Eoff, of Springfield. The Rev. David M. Bryan, pastor of the church, officiated before an altar tiered with palm branches, baskets of white chrysanthemums and pompons and woodwardia. Fifty-six lighted tapers stood in seven-branched candelabra behind the altar and the two pillars flanking the altar were twined with huckleberry. The double-ring ceremony was used.

Before the bridal party entered the church Mrs. H. O. Foraker, organist, played "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint Saens; "Love Everlasting," by Rudolf Prill; "Ave Maria," by Bach-Gounod; "O, Perfect Love," (with chimes) by Burleigh; "The Evening Star," by Wagner and "I Love You Truly," by Bond.

As Miss Eleanor Evans and Miss Challis Johnson lighted the tapers, Mrs. Foraker played "At Dawning" by Cadman. The candle-lighters wore matching dresses of moss green taffeta, full-length over hoops and crinolines, banded with moss green satin and had off-the-shoulder necklines. Each girl carried a white taper tied with green bows and wore a small coronet of bronze baby mums in her hair.

Mr. Al Domingue, soloist, sang "All For You," by Bertrand-Brown and "Because," by D'Hardelot.

Miss Berry, walking with her father down the taper-lined aisle, chose for her marriage to Mr. Eoff, a dress fashioned of ivory bridal satin with a fitted bodice and a deep square neckline cuffed with a wide collar of Venice dyed-to-match lace. Long fitted sleeves ending in points over the hands, followed the traditional design. The skirt was bouffant over hoops and crinolines. The side paniers ended in a long court train. Her bridal cap was of matching ivory satin, trimmed in rows of tiny seed pearls and was fashioned in a baby-cap design with dyed-to-match illusion forming a finger-tip veil. She carried a prayer book, to which was attached a cluster of ivory gardenias and streamers of ivory shower cording.

The matron of honor, her sister-in-law Mrs. Karl J. Berry wore a moss green satin dress fashioned with a fitted bodice and a deep off-the-shoulder collar with tiny puff sleeves. The full skirt over hoops and crinolines was full length and held in the back with a large bustle-like satin bow. Her halo was of matching moss green satin, with shoulder length dyed-to-match illusion. She carried a large bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums, tied with gold ribbons of satin.

Miss Pauline Milburn was the maid of honor and wore a bronze satin dress, which was identical in design to that of the matron of honor. Her bouquet was of the same large bronze chrysanthemums, tied with moss green ribbon.

The bride and her attendants were met at the altar by the bridegroom, Mr. Charles Robert Eoff and his two brothers, who were his attendants, Mr. William and Mr. Thomas Eoff, both of Springfield. The "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was used as the processional and during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte was played. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was the recessional.

Mr. Karl J. Berry, brother of the bride, Mr. Don Johnson, Mr. William Eoff and Mr. Thomas Eoff were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Ambassador room of the Hotel Bothwell. To the right of the receiving line were lace-covered tables. On one of these was the all-white and silver wedding cake, which was surrounded by smilax and white roses and fern. Atop the cake was an arbor of orange blossoms, under which stood a miniature bride and bridegroom. The cake was cut by Miss Challis Johnson and Miss Eleanor Evans presided at the punch bowl. They were both assisted by Miss Genevieve

Miss Jo Ann Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Summers, 413 West Eleventh street, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Lloyd Waters, 2015 East Twelfth street, is announced today.

Sullivan, Miss Lois Gordon, Mrs. Jerry L. Engle and Mrs. Irwin Lehner, Miss Bessie Woodward presided at the guest book. Rosebud mints were given each guest with white napkins inscribed, "Virginia and Bob" in gold.

During the reception Mrs. Donald Donath and Miss Mary Frances Burlingame played violin selections, accompanied by Mrs. Nellie Monegan.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Ivan Berry, wore a cocktail-length dress of open blue lace, fashioned on simple princess lines, with jeweled button closings. Her hat was a small cap of burgundy velvet, trimmed in a soft rose shade. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Eoff of Springfield wore a dress of navy lace, cocktail-length, fashioned with a tunic effect and her corsage was of white carnations. Her hat and gloves were of matching pearl pink.

The couple left for a wedding trip of a week through southern Missouri and northern Arkansas. Mrs. Eoff chose for traveling a three-piece matched ensemble of plum color. Her accessories were black, trimmed in gold and she wore a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Eoff was graduated from Smith-Cotton high school in 1946 and attended Central Missouri State college, where she was a member of the Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. She is employed by the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, where she is a service representative. She is also a member of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Mr. Eoff attended Drury college in Springfield and for the past two years has been assistant show horse trainer at the Vic Johnson stables at the Missouri State Fair grounds. He recently entered the United States army and is stationed at Fort Leonard Wood.

Mrs. Eoff will reside in Sedalia until Mr. Eoff completes his basic training.

Out of town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Eoff, parents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. William Eoff, Mr. Thomas Eoff, Mr. Larry Eoff and Mr. and Mrs. George O'Neal, all of Springfield, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Chambers of Kansas City; Mr. K. J. Boyer, grandfather of the bride and Mrs. Pina Pointer, both of Cabool; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Married In Home Wedding

At a pretty home wedding Sunday afternoon, November 12, Miss Mary Ann Hildebrandt, daughter of Mrs. E. H. Hildebrandt, 1007 West Sixth street, became the bride of Mr. Tommy E. Bast, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Bast, 803 West Seventh street with the Rev. Thomas W. Croxton, pastor of the First Baptist church, reading the single ring ceremony.

The setting for the wedding was before a fireplace in the living room in front of which was a handpainted floral decidater screen, a family heirloom. On either side were tall standards of orchid and white chrysanthemums. Tall white tapers in white pottery holders were on the mantel between which was a centerpiece of orchid and white mums.

Parade Brings Great Throng To Sedalia

Jaycees Sponsored Event Wins The Plaudits Of All

Everybody hesitates to guess how many people saw the Christmas parade sponsored by the Jaycees Friday afternoon but all agreed that it was one of the biggest crowds ever in downtown Sedalia.

There wasn't a hitch in the whole thing. In the first place the weatherman decided that since everybody else had done their part in getting ready for the parade that he would do his part, too, and give an ideal day which he did. The sun came out and the temperature went up to 65 degrees.

The people came to town in droves and lined the streets an hour before the time and were surprised when the parade started right on the dot. "Parades are always late" said someone in the crowd and at that moment the music of the first band started up, and the parade was on its way.

There was a lot of work on the many floats of civic organizations, schools, business firms and 4-H clubs and every one was good enough to be a winner. But they couldn't all be winners so the judges had the big job in selecting the one each.

Kiwanis Float Wins For the civic clubs the Kiwanis Club won with a white float trimmed in green and a group of pretty girls in formal.

The Walnut Grove 4-H club won in the 4-H clubs with the children around a crib in a scene of the first Christmas.

For the business floats the winner was the Lamy Manufacturing company and depicted a scene of the evening campfire of cowboys after the roundup—all wearing Levis.

Valley Band Wins The winning band was the Missouri Valley college from Marshall which not only took part in the parade but also gave two exhibitions afterward.

And for the schools, Georgetown was the winner with a big red shoe overflowing with youngsters.

Queen Float Beautiful A thing of real beauty was the queen float and it took the woman's touch to make it even lovelier. The young women at the Chamber of Commerce office discovered the night before the parade that there were no crowns for the queen and her princess and so they made crowns as well as the vivid red cape worn by the queen. The five girls were all in colorful formal.

The music of all the bands and the colorful uniforms as well as the stepping of the drum majors and majorettes added to the parade.

The floats by the Hammond company were clever and enjoyed to the fullest by the youngsters along with the clowns and the animals, and of course dear old Santa Claus and his eight reindeer. Those reindeer are pretty frisky and Santa had a great deal of trouble that is the reason they were inside a fence. They were just a bit tired by parade time because some of them got loose and gave the men in charge quite a chase.

Santa Gives Candy Santa, who was Ralph Hall, was tired but happy by the time the day was done. From the time the parade ended about 3:30 o'clock he stood on the courthouse lawn and gave the candy that the Jaycees had purchased to the children. About 5:00 o'clock John Carroll, general chairman of the parade picked him up and took him out to see a little youngster who was sick in bed and who told them of another child who was also sick and away went Santa to see that child, too.

People came from everywhere in this area to see the parade and one man who once lived in Sedalia and was visiting here from Arizona made a special trip down town to see it.

It took a lot of cooperation from everybody to put this big event over and the Jaycees worked for weeks getting everything ready. They received help from everybody they asked and feel that the success of it was due to the help of everybody in general. When they called on Guy Peabody they received good tips on how to put the parade in line and among his suggestions was: "Start on time."

And Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors and his force were on hand to give a hand, too.

The merchants, too, were jubilant over the crowd, who not only came to town but visited their stores, which were all decorated for Christmas.

It was really a red letter day in Sedalia and the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are very interested in knowing what the people of Central Missouri thought of the parade, and would appreciate a card or letter from anyone saying what they thought of it. The letters will reach them addressed to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Sedalia, Mo.

Kindliness And Friendly Aid is Freely Given in Cold and Snow

With the first real snow and zero weather of the winter there are many little things of human interest that come to light, people fuss about the temperature but there is good humor and friendliness everywhere. There is an instinct to do the nice, thoughtful little things, too.

The first very slick day a young Smith-Cotton high school girl was down on Ohio avenue when she saw an elderly woman slip and fall. The young girl rushed to her, picked her up and asked if she was hurt. She wasn't—only frightened. The girl suggested that she call a taxi for the woman so she could get safely home but the woman declined—she didn't have the money for taxi fare. Then the girl did something that few older people would have done—she called the taxi, saw that the woman got in and paid the fare herself.

Another thing done after the snow had deepened the same day, a small girl, not more than six or seven years old, in a gray cap and coat, was going down Grand avenue. She saw a newspaper sticking up out of the snow at the edge of the walk where the paper boy had thrown it. She stopped, not knowing that anyone saw her, picked it up and tried to throw it up on the porch. She was so little that she could not throw that far, but she did get it near enough that the people of the home could get it without having to get out in the snow.

Taxi drivers were having a busy time, trying to get everybody to work or everywhere they wanted to go—and if the call got in early enough people got to work on time. However, some people just didn't make it and some decided to walk. One young woman couldn't get a taxi so called a friend not too far away from where she lived and he told her he would be by to pick her up—but when he tried to start his car it wouldn't start. Then she called another friend and asked that he pick them both up—he assured her he would be by in a short time—but a few minutes later his wife called and said he, too, was having trouble—he couldn't get his car started either. And so the girl walked—a mile and a half to work in the zero weather and snow—and it took her all day to thaw out—but next time she is going to put in that taxi call real early.

She will probably be like another girl who had the taxi ordered for early in the morning, so she would be sure to get to work on time and then overslept. When she heard the taxi honk, she put on her coat, slipped on her shoes, grabbed her clothes and started out. Of course she had to dress after she got there but at least she was on time.

But as busy as the taxi drivers were all day Wednesday, one answered a call to a hotel and found that his passenger, after he had gotten in, wanted to go to a store around the corner, next door to the hotel—the man, who had been having a right jolly time, was perfectly willing to pay for the ride around the corner and gave a ten cent tip.

One young woman couldn't get a taxi so called a friend not too far away from where she lived and he told her he would be by to pick her up—but when he tried to start his car it wouldn't start. Then she called another friend and asked that he pick them both up—he assured her he would be by in a short time—but a few minutes later his wife called and said he, too, was having trouble—he couldn't get his car started either. And so the girl walked—a mile and a half to work in the zero weather and snow—and it took her all day to thaw out—but next time she is going to put in that taxi call real early.

She will probably be like another girl who had the taxi ordered for early in the morning, so she would be sure to get to work on time and then overslept. When she heard the taxi honk, she put on her coat, slipped on her shoes, grabbed her clothes and started out. Of course she had to dress after she got there but at least she was on time.

But as busy as the taxi drivers were all day Wednesday, one answered a call to a hotel and found that his passenger, after he had gotten in, wanted to go to a store around the corner, next door to the hotel—the man, who had been having a right jolly time, was perfectly willing to pay for the ride around the corner and gave a ten cent tip.

She was so little that she could not throw that far, but she did get it near enough that the people of the home could get it without having to get out in the snow.

Taxi drivers were having a busy time, trying to get everybody to work or everywhere they wanted to go—and if the call got in early enough people got to work on time. However, some people just didn't make it and some decided to walk. One young woman couldn't get a taxi so called a friend not too far away from where she lived and he told her he would be by to pick her up—but when he tried to start his car it wouldn't start. Then she called another friend and asked that he pick them both up—he assured her he would be by in a short time—but a few minutes later his wife called and said he, too, was having trouble—he couldn't get his car started either. And so the girl walked—a mile and a half to work in the zero weather and snow—and it took her all day to thaw out—but next time she is going to put in that taxi call real early.

No Thought of Sub-Zero Cold A Withdrawal Of Missouri

Such is Voiced by Defense Minister Of Great Britain

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell declared in the House of Commons today "there is no thought in our minds or in that of the American authorities of withdrawal from Korea."

He said there may be "still harder tidings" from the critical front, however. "No one knows what the outcome will be. It would be foolish to under estimate the size or determination of the Chinese intervention."

He told the House U. N. forces already face 270,000 Red Chinese soldiers, with 500,000 more in reserve.

He paid tribute to "the gallantry with which our allies—particularly the U. S. soldiers, the main bearers of the burden—are fighting this desperate and unequal battle, and added:

"The government are fully aware of the anxiety which must be felt by the relatives of those serving in Korea and indeed by the whole country. We share their anxiety."

Trying to Escape

A Royal Marine commando unit is fighting with American forces trying to escape the Chinese Communist trap in northwestern Korea.

Shinwell said this commando unit suffered casualties of eight killed, 26 wounded and 35 missing last Wednesday. He said he had no fresh reports of casualties from the two United Kingdom brigades engaged in western Korea.

Up to the time of the Chinese Communist offensive, the United Kingdom forces had listed 52 killed, 174 wounded and five missing.

American casualties have passed the 31,000 mark. Conservative Beverley Baxter declared in the debate that "if it came to a choice between destruction of our men and use of the atom bomb I and many of my friends would support the use of the bomb."

Ask 25 Year Term for Spy

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—(P)—The government demanded a prison sentence of 25 years for confessed atomic spy courier Harry Gold, and sentence was delayed until Saturday morning to permit "reflection" by U. S. District Judge James P. McGranery. The delay surprised the crowd jamming the court room. Gold received it without visible emotion, and later was led back to his prison cell.

U. S. Attorney Gerald A. Gleason said his recommendation for the 25-year term had the approval of Attorney General Howard McGrath. And he charged that Gold, in helping deliver U. S. atomic and industrial secrets to Soviet Russia, had acted "in contempt of the authority of the United States."

Defense Attorney John D. M. Hamilton did not make a specific recommendation of sentence. Through a three-hour argument tracing Gold's background he emphasized that Gold "is not accused of conspiring to harm the United States."

Let Senators Make Decision

GOP Leaders to Put to Them Move On Acheson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Republican senate leaders decided today to let all GOP senators pass upon a formal request "for the resignation or replacement of secretary of state Acheson."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman, told reporters this was the decision of the senate GOP committee.

Taft said the 11-member policy committee, after an hour and a half closed-door session, took no direct action itself.

Instead it agreed to call a conference of all 43 Republican senators early next week, probably Tuesday, for a discussion of the oust-Acheson move as well as the broader subject of foreign and military policies.
